POPE DESIGNATES 5 ADDITIONAL SEES FOR U.S. CATHOLICS

Two Elevated to Archbishoprics and Three Bishops Are Selected.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Pope Pius gave the Catholic church in America greater importance today by creating two new archdioceses and three new dioceses, bringing the total of archdioceses for the United States up to 19.

The new archdioceses are at Newark, N. J., and Louisville, Ky., the new dioceses are Paterson, N. J.; Camden, N. J., and Owensboro, Ky. Newark and Louisville were previously dioceses.

Archbishops Named.
The present bishops of Newark and Louisville, Monsignors Thomas J. Walsh and John A. Floersch, respectively, are raised to the rank of archbishop.

Pope Pius also named Monsignor Stephen Woznicki auxiliary bishop of Detroit with the titular rank of Bishop of Pelite. He will be auxiliary to the archbishop of Detroit, Monsignor Edward Mooney.

Those changes were announced tonight by his excellency, Archbishop Amleto Cicognani, apostolic delegate here.

He said the Pope was induced to make the elevations of dioceses to archdioceses and the creation of new dioceses because of the growing Catholic population in the United States.

Shows Catholic Growth.
Archbishop Cicognani pointed out that the last 12 months have seen an extraordinary development of the Catholic hierarchy in the United States. In that time four new archdioceses have been created—Los Angeles, Detroit, Newark and Louisville, as well as many new dioceses.

The new archbishops will receive the pallium—the symbol of their office, made from the wool of lambs—at a secret consistory next Monday. The bestowal will be by proxy.

The new bishops for Paterson, Camden and Owensboro, the apostolic delegate said, will be announced at a public consistory next Wednesday.

LONE JUROR BALKS

Mistrial Declared in Slaying by Pretty Woman.

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A lone juror who stuck to his opinion that Mrs. Alma Mims was sane when she shot her estranged husband, forced a mistrial today in the murder case of the attractive twice-married brunet.

Judge Sandler set a second trial for January 10.

The whole defense at the two-day trial was that Mrs. Mims' mind was unbalanced when she shot and killed Tom M. Mims, Auburndale dry cleaner, in the parlor of her sister's home here August 20.

Testimony showed Mrs. Mims also had shot her first husband.

OGLETHORPE SUED BY TRUST COMPANY

Effort To Have Silver Lake Property Deeds Ruled Void Is Launched.

A fight to have deeds to property owned by Oglethorpe University declared null and void was launched in Fulton superior court yesterday by the Atlanta Trust Company.

The trust company petition sets out that the property was conveyed to the university by the now-defunct Silver Lake Park Company, organized here in 1907, after its charter was dissolved.

The action seeks to have title to the park company's property returned to the stockholders of the company in order that it might collect $58,376.60 claimed as part of an unpaid superior court judgment awarded the trust company in 1931 against B. M. Blount, a stockholder.

Naming as defendants Oglethorpe University and Thornwell Jacobs, H. B. Kennedy, of the park company, and Blount, the action charges transfer of the property was an effort to "create a cloud" upon the title of Blount in the property.

Find Dixie Girls 'Prettier, More Feminine' EXTEND LINT QUIZ

Americans work harder than Britons, say British Debaters James Brown, of Oxford, and Ronald Gibson, of Cambridge, who were in Atlanta last night to debate an Agnes Scott team. Above are (left to right) Mary Frances Guthrie, of Louisville, Ky., and Margaret Hopkins, of Gainesville, Fla., who represented Agnes Scott, and Brown and Gibson. The visitors said southern girls are "prettier and more feminine" than their northern sisters.

Americans 'Are Harder Workers,' English Team at Agnes Scott Says

Debaters 'Quite Sure Bedlam of Big Apple' Couldn't Happen in Britain; Compare Students of United States and in Land of Beef Eaters.

By ELIZA KING.

Americans are more industrious than the English.

The observation came from two student debaters representing Cambridge and Oxford Universities on a six-week forensic tour of the Atlantic seaboard.

"Contrary to the popular belief, Americans work harder, longer and more intensively than the British," they declared.

Ronald Gibson represents Cambridge University and James Brown is from Oxford. They are engaging debate teams in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Georgia. Last night they met the Agnes Scott team and their next engagement will be at George Washington University.

The question debated at Agnes Scott was: "Resolved the power of trade unions has increased, is increasing and should be diminished."

"Americans continue working after they make a lot of money where Englishmen don't," the Britons said.

They deplored the lack of or-

CCC Reveals Georgia Loans Under Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Counsel for the Commodity Credit Corporation disclosed tonight an investigation to uncover any fraudulent applications for government cotton loans would be extended into all of the cotton states.

John D. Goodloe, the Corporation attorney, made this disclosure after recommending to the Justice Department that charges be filed against 25 or 30 growers, buyers and ginners in Arkansas.

He said one or two cases were under investigation in Georgia, Virginia, Tennessee and North Carolina, and that a general check-up would be made in other cotton regions.

organized student movements in the United States but explained their non-existence.

"American students are too busy. We never go to classes in the afternoon and consequently have the afternoons and nights to ourselves. We never have classes at the horrible hour of 8 o'clock."

English students are older than the average American college boy or girl, Gibson and Brown estimated. The majority of English boys complete their formal education after finishing public schooling at the age of 14 and then go to work, they said. The few that continue their education study longer and more intensively in provincial universities and at one of the "ancient universities," which are Cambridge and Oxford.

The English boys thought "bedlam had broken loose" when they walked on the dance floor at the University of Pennsylvania and saw the Big Apple in progress for the first time. But, while they thought it "quite nice," they were "quite sure" it couldn't happen in England.

"Cutting-in" at dances was an extraordinary experience. But it takes away the pleasure of dancing having someone interrupting so continuously, they thought.

Hodge-Podge Opinions.
And what do English Messrs. Brown and Gibson think about other things they have seen in this country?

There is little difference between the north and the south . . . the girls in the south are "prettier and more feminine" but nowhere in the United States are the women as "shy" as in native England . . . President Roosevelt is the tops . . . the supreme court is "grand when it doesn't get in Roosevelt's way, but when it does, it is horrid." The Duke and Duchess of Windsor should be allowed to return to England as private citizens . . . Edward can best serve his country by being useless, else he will take the spotlight off King George.

The main difference between America and England? America is "bigger, wealthier, has more material and—the people work harder."

perance committee desired a ruling.

It was expected the bill would be revised to provide for repeal of the general prohibition statute, thus meeting objections raised by the attorney general's ruling. Yeomans' opinion cited a provision of the constitution that laws of general nature shall have uniform operation throughout the state.

Before reaching the homestead tax exemption bill, the house approved a resolution calling upon State Auditor Tom Wisdom to compile and analyze a report submitted earlier showing 6,750 persons on the state's pay roll November 15. The resolution asked the auditor to show total pay rolls, omitted in the first report.

Gasoline Tax Loosed.
The house also received new measures proposing practically to double the present tax rate on net incomes, increase the state gasoline tax to 7 cents and two bills affecting marriage and divorce laws.

While the house was listening to an explanation of the tax exemption bill, the DeKalb county grand jury visited Governor Rivers in a body and left resolutions protesting that local self-government would be destroyed and counties placed on the "verge of bankruptcy" if "policies apparently sponsored by this administration become fully effective."

The Governor and the legislature were asked to "redeem the promise under which the homestead and property exemptions were voted for and enacted, to wit, that adequate and proper provision to prevent the impairment of local county self-government would be made."

Rivers Answers Jurors.
Rivers told the jurors half a dozen other states in the south have enacted tax exemption laws and added: "I don't think they've torn down any courthouses in these states." He advised bills have been introduced to offset losses to counties from the exemption proposals.

The homestead bill, providing exemption of $2,000 value from state, county and school district ad valorem taxation, does not apply to taxes levied to pay off bonded debts already in existence. It stipulates, however, that assessments shall not be raised above the level of 1937 valuations. Sponsors said this clause was inserted to prevent the cost of tax values by local authorities to make up for loss of revenue.

Amendments offered today included one to reduce the exemption from $2,000 to $1,250, by Davis, of Floyd. Several others called for elimination of filing fees. Clem Sutton, floor leader, and Representative Harrell, of Brooks, a member of the committee which redrafted the bill approved by the senate, explained the bill in detail.

To Study Fee Bill.
A bill to raise fees of county tax collectors, making up for anticipated losses resulting from the exemption bill will be considered again by the senate. The measure was defeated yesterday but the senate voted, 22 to 10, to take the matter up again on motion of Senator Lee Purdom, of Blackshear, coauthor of the bill. It would increase fees of collectors about 30 per cent. Senator Lindsay, of DeKalb, said it probably would be reached late next week.

A second prison reform bill was introduced in the senate by Lindsay providing for creation of a state board of prison administration. It calls for a board of five members, no two of whom may be members of the same profession. It would be given control over felony and misdemeanor prisoners, with the exception of paroles, probations and pardons.

The first reform bill, introduced Thursday, would change the present state prison commission into a parole and pardon board with power to act without approval of the Governor.

Vote Howell Memorial.

The senate approved a resolution designating the highway between Atlanta and Warm Springs as Clark Howell Memorial highway.

New senate bills included two by Purdom relating to loan companies. One would make it unlawful for a firm to purchase salaries or wages to secure debts. The other would amend the present small loan act, setting interest on loans up to $300 at one-half of 1 per cent a month. Interest would not be payable in advance and would be computed only on the unpaid balance. Extra charges would be made illegal.

In the house, Representative Croker, of Paulding, introduced a bill to establish a graduated scale of net income taxes starting at 2 per cent on the first $1,000 and going as high as 9 per cent on incomes of more than $8,000.

Two Cents to Counties.

Increase of the gasoline tax to seven cents was called for by Representative Dean, of Rockdale. His bill would allocate the extra one cent to counties on the basis of highway mileage. The counties now receive one cent of the levy and the remainder goes to the highway board for road construction.

A law requiring citizens to obtain health certificates before marriage licenses was proposed by Welsh, of Cobb. Representatives Hamby and Booth offered a bill to shorten residence requirements for divorce to 30 days. The present law requires a year's residence.

Prison committees of both houses left late yesterday for Tattall county to inspect the new state prison.

ROBERT R. JOHNSON, CIVIC LEADER, DIES

Philanthropist Was President of Campbell Coal Company Ten Years.

Robert R. Johnson, 53, president of the Campbell Coal Company and active in civic and philanthropic work, died early last night at his residence, 2086 East Lake road, N. E.

Mr. Johnson had been ill for about 10 days with a heart ailment. His health had been poor for the past few years.

He was a native of Eatonton, Ga., and a member of a prominent Putnam county family. His father was Captain Benjamin Franklin Johnson and his mother was Martha Angelina Rosser.

Coming to Atlanta as a boy, Mr. Johnson went to work for the Campbell firm. He rose from his first job as of more than 40 years ago, several years learning the business at the mines in Springs, Tenn.

Later he became a salesman, then vice president of the company about 10 years. He was a prominent member of the Jackson Hill Baptist church and sponsored erection of a $85,000 building on University Street of Georgia School.

Mr. Johnson gave more than $40,000 toward erection of a building.

He is survived by his wife, former Miss Leonora Dean; a daughter, Mrs. T. S. Dean; two sons, Mrs. W. R. Sasser, Mrs. M. E. Ford, and a son, Laban S. Johnson.

Funeral arrangements announced by H. M. Patterson.

Jingle Bells

Listen to good Swing Music over the radio. Then whistle "Jingle Bells, Jingle Bells." You'll be convinced that the original Swing Music was written by the hoof beats of Santa's reindeer across the skies and the jingle of bells on the harness they wore. There is nothing new about Christmas. It is as old as the story of the Three Wise Men, yet as bright and as fresh as the berries on our holly wreaths. It is not something made of brick and mortar because the structure we build up in our minds in December seems to disappear entirely during the rest of the year. The greatest things in this world are the things that live in the mind and heart—and that's where Christmas lives.

Rich man, poor man and all, are joining the Christmas parade to Davison's. Better come along and join the crowds without being crowded. Wide aisles, high ceilings, lots of elevators (with Jingle Bells) will make gift-shopping a grand adventure.

Farley Folds Up His Old Postoffice

GRASSY POINT, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(P)—Postmaster General Farley today ordered the closing of his old home town post-office where he collected and delivered family mail as a boy.

Postmaster Vincent Hannigan, a Farley appointee, posted a notice saying the office would end 103 years of service next Wednesday.

Farley was born May 30, 1888, at Grassy Point, the original name of the town although at one time it had been changed to North Haverstraw. He lived here a number of years before moving into Haverstraw.

LEHMAN PUTS BAN ON 'FOREIGN' GUARD

Orders 'Russian Battery' Be Reorganized Following Military Ball Probe.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(P)—Appearance in uniform of some New York national guardsmen at a Russian-sponsored social affair brought a demand today by Governor Lehman for an order forbidding militiamen "to further or promote any so-called nationalistic group."

Lehman asked Adjutant General Robinson to issue the order as the result of an investigation into the participation of members of second battalion headquarters and combat train, 244th coast artillery, at a ball and concert on the U. S. S. Illinois, a naval reserve training ship, on November 13.

Major General William N. Haskell, commanding officer of the guard who investigated, said that two officers and 12 enlisted men of the battalion, composed almost exclusively of so-called "White Russians" and known as the "Russian Battery," attended in uniform as well as numerous other persons "including officers of the old imperial Russian army and navy."

Lehman also asked that the so-called "Russian Battery" be reorganized, and the personnel distributed proportionately among all the batteries of the regiment, and that the continued use of such designations as "Russian Battery" or the prefixing of any similar non-American or foreign designation to the name of any unit within a regiment be eliminated.

the assassin of President Paul Doumer.

"I never lived at Weidmann's villa," the 25-year-old woman said, "but I visited there often during the summer."

Perspiration poured down her face as she talked.

"At first I never had anything to reproach Weidmann with. He never mentioned his crimes. When I learned from newspapers of the deaths of some persons I had known he was friendly with he threatened to kill me."

Throughout the day police agents dug up the grounds of the isolated "death villa" at St. Cloud, where Weidmann, confessed "expert in murder," led them to the buried body of the long-missing Brooklyn (N. Y.) dancer he said he had strangled to get "money to eat."

Discovery of a trunk in the villa, where Weidmann was captured after a gun fight yesterday, caused police to declare Miss De Koven might not have been the only woman murdered. Police Magistrate Berry, of Versailles, said "enough clothes for seven or eight women" were found in the trunk.

Wiedmann Talks.

Little by little the Versailles police wormed details of Miss De Koven's death from Weidmann, curly-haired German ex-convict, as they questioned him in relays.

"I took De Koven from Paris to my villa by train. From the station we took a short walk. We bought a bottle of milk and drank it between us. I killed her that evening. I did not tell the others in my gang that she was dead. I said only I had kidnaped her and she was at the house of one of my friends."

Weidmann's confession put police on the trail of others who might belong to his "gang."

Use Advertisements.

Berry said they met their victims through advertisements inserted in Paris magazines.

One read: "Interesting prospect for wealthy man wanting to invest money." Another: "Young man would like to meet woman with ready cash."

Miss De Koven, Weidmann said, was the first victim and was slain July 23.

Weidmann, who fled Germany to escape military service, said he met Million last May at a hotel where he was working as an interpreter for Expo Paris Exposition.

He said Million supplied him with money and proposed the organization of a syndicate. Weidmann told his questioners, the Frenchman said, "we must rent an isolated villa in the suburbs of Paris. We will hide our victims there until the ransom is paid."

Berry said Weidmann told police he opened a conversation with Miss De Koven in a midtown hotel when he saw her reading an English newspaper because "I liked to speak English."

"More Horrible."

"I knew English since my visits in America and Canada," he said. "The memory of her killing is more horrible than all the others."

Weidmann said he made a date with Miss De Koven for the same hotel July 23, when she agreed to accompany him to the villa at St. Cloud.

"It was that same evening," he testified, according to the police transcript, "that for some reason which I can't explain I killed her."

Responsible Testimony.

"Whereas, from testimony and evidence before this body from responsible, well-informed and intelligent private citizens and officials we believe that whether the Governor and general assembly realize it, if the policies apparently sponsored by this administration become fully effective the alternate result will be to destroy every vestige of local self-government and that immediately the operation of the presently enacted homestead and personal property exemptions will reduce by more than one-third the funds available for the rendering of all these services, and since much of the income remaining is earmarked for certain specified purposes and not available for general and essential governmental services, which obviously cannot be performed without the money necessary to perform them, and

"Whereas, we can learn of no plan or proposal either by the Governor or the general assembly of Georgia now in extraordinary session which has as its purpose the replacement in this or other counties that portion of the taxes which its citizens pay for their own local self-government, and of which they have been deprived, although in asking our citizens to vote for the measures which have brought this about the Governor of Georgia repeatedly assured them that their local governments would be provided for adequately, and

Ad Valorem Tax.

"Whereas, neither the citizens of our county, nor of any other, have the right to tax themselves in any other manner than through the ad valorem property tax, as delegated to them by the state, although the state itself has almost unlimited powers to raise money in a great many ways, and an attempt by the county to raise funds necessary through this means by raising either tax rates or assessments upon its remaining taxpayers would constitute an injustice and a tax burden so heavy as to be entirely improper and impractical, and

"Whereas, it is our well-considered belief that neither this nor many other counties in this state can continue to provide services absolutely essential to the safety, health and welfare of its citizens under these conditions and that any attempt on the part of the state government to substitute for, or assume the responsibilities properly belonging to local county self-government would inevitably result in destruction of our pride in good local self-government, in irreparably impaired efficiency, in great increased cost to the taxpayer, in the removal beyond the reach of the citizen of modest means, those who administer his government and who are now easily available to him, although not beyond the reach of those who would exploit him for their own political or financial benefit, or both, and in a change so drastic and so great from the basic ideals of government of our forefathers who founded our own, and so repugnant to the essential plan of our democracy as to constitute a real and definite threat to its perpetuity."

"Redeem Promise."

"Be it therefore resolved: That the Governor and general assembly of Georgia be petitioned to enact immediately such legislation as will redeem the promise under which the homestead and the present soil conservation program. Benefit payments are given co-operating farmers.

The measure provides: 1. Denial of payments to those who do not reduce acreage in the five crops in accordance with an annual determination by the secretary of agriculture.

2. Authorization to the Commodity Credit Corporation to make loans on surplus crops in an "ever-normal granary" system. This, advocates claim, would protect consumers in years of scarcity against unduly high prices and farmers against low prices in bumper years.

3. Powers for the secretary of agriculture to invoke marketing quotas and penalty taxes when the supply reaches given percentages above normal. The quotas, however, must be approved by two-thirds of the affected farmers in referendum.

Senate Bill Offers "Parity." The senate bill offers "parity" instead of soil conservation payments for acreage reduction, its marketing quotas are applied at lower levels than the house measure, and the penalties are more severe.

GEORGIANS FAVOR FARM BILL, 5 TO 3

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(P)—Georgia representatives voted, five to three, today for enactment of the house farm bill.

Representatives Brown, Deen, Owen, Ramspeck and Vinson voted for it; Representatives Pace, Peterson and Tarver against. Representatives Cox and Wheeler were absent.

The Georgians expressed dissatisfaction with the Bolieu amendment prohibiting benefit payments on land taken out of soil-depleting crops and turned to commercial dairying or growing of feed crops.

conservation, must provide financing. The house bill carries a provision authorizing use of the $500,000,000 and any other funds congress may later approve. In addition it authorizes use of $125,000,000 of customs receipts for expansion of foreign and domestic markets for farm products.

Jones said the house bill could operate within the $825,000,000 limit efficiently.

The biggest fight of the day came when the leadership succeeded in reinstating the wheat quota and penalty tax provisions. They had been eliminated in a revolt led by Representative Harry B. Coffee, Democrat, Nebraska.

Cotton Amendment Settled. On a voice vote the house also removed an earlier-approved amendment by Representative Aaron L. Ford, Democrat, Missisissippi, revising the cotton acreage provisions. An effort by Representative Sam C. Massingale, Democrat, Oklahoma, to substitute a measure guaranteeing farmers cost of production for the committee bill was ruled not germane.

The house rejected, 77 to 34, an effort by Representative Robert Luce, Republican, Massachusetts, to put those administering the bill under civil service.

Republican and Democratic opposition to the measure had been based upon alleged unconstitutionality, discrimination against small farmers and "compulsory" features.

Senator Gerald P. Nye, Republican, North Dakota, told the senate that he would attach a crop insurance bill as a "rider" to the senate measure. The senate passed the insurance bill last session but it bogged down in the house.

Nye further assailed the bill and added that he wondered "if I am ready to stand the consequences that would grow out of a program of scarcity for agriculture."

Muscular Rheumatic Pains

It takes more than "just a salve" to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old Musterole—soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the local congestion and pain when rubbed on the aching spots.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly. Better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster, Musterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.—(adv.)

HARTSFIELD VETOES SIX CITY HOLIDAYS AS 'TOO EXPENSIVE'

Mayor Dubs Bill a 'Reversion to Days of Tremendous Deficits.'

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday vetoed a council resolution establishing six holidays for all municipal employees with the assertion "it is a reversion to the methods in vogue when the city's tremendous deficit was created and will mean the loss of services to the people of Atlanta."

The measure, sponsored Monday by Councilman J. Allen Couch, set Christmas, Thanksgiving, Labor Day, the Fourth of July, New Year's and Armistice Day as holidays, providing that those, who because of the necessity for continuing services could not take the holiday, were to be given a day off within 30 days from the date of the holiday.

"We cannot possibly afford such a law with city finances in their present condition," Hartsfield said. Couch said last night he will launch a fight at the December 20 council meeting to override the veto.

Included among the important measures which Hartsfield approved was an urgent request for the federal government to pay about $10,000 into the city treasury for city services to Techwood and University low-cost housing projects, and another Couch resolution asking the Fulton County Board of Public Welfare to feed hungry applicants and investigate them later.

KING GIVES AMERICAN NOBEL PHYSICS PRIZE

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Dr. Clinton J. Davidson, of New York, today received the Nobel prize in physics from the hand of King Gustaf at a formal ceremony attended by the royal family and members of the diplomatic corps.

Other winners also were presented with their prizes.

Puerto Rico Stamp Goes on Sale Here

A new 3-cent stamp dedicated to Puerto Rico went on sale yesterday at the Atlanta post-office.

The Puerto Rican stamp is the third in a commemorative series dedicated to United States islands and outlying possessions. It is purple in color and its central subject is a reproduction of the old governor's palace known as "Fortaleza."

Postal officials reported a brisk sale of the stamp yesterday. It was placed on sale at San Juan, Puerto Rico, November 25. The fourth and last of the series, dedicated to the Virgin Islands, will be released on December 15.

RED CROSS MOVES TO AID SNOWBOUND

Buffalo Area Practically Isolated by 15-Foot Drifts; 10 Deaths Reported.

By The Associated Press.

Red Cross and New York state officials mobilized forces last (Friday) night to aid the 150,000 residents of the snowbound Buffalo area, many of whom were threatened by hunger, fire and death in the most severe December blizzard in years.

Freezing temperatures tightened around the Great Lakes region, halting land and water traffic. In the southeast, the weather moderated slightly, though the orchards of northern Florida and the cane-fields of Louisiana still were imperiled.

Easterners in some sections plowed through a snowfall as deep as 30 inches, gales up to 70 miles an hour roared off the California coast and heavy rains disrupted communications in Panama, where a work train was derailed by a landslide in the Canal Zone.

The cold wave struck western New York hardest. In Buffalo, the Red Cross organized sled, snowshoe and ski crews to deliver food and medicine to marooned families; 1,000 Boy Scouts were recruited to assist them.

Answering an appeal for national guard troops to protect the isolated suburb of Kenmore, Governor Lehman ordered all available highway workers to dig out the town instead.

Ten persons have died in the hard-hit Buffalo area—the tenth, a man who waited vainly for an ambulance two days. In Pennsylvania 13 have been killed, six of them children, in coasting accidents. A fire in a Cape Charles (Va.) home caused nine deaths. Drivers of 60 trucks and 100 passenger cars were marooned at Glenn, Mich., with little to eat but pancakes.

Governor's Family Stamps Approval on Big Brothers

E. D. Rivers Jr. points out the likeness of Betsy Ross, designer of America's first flag, to his mother, Georgia's "First Lady," during a visit to the Big Brothers-sponsored wax museum, 60 Peachtree street. By making this tour these members of the Governor's family are helping support the Big Brother campaign.

U. S. ACTS TO FIND MISSING COUPLE

American Embassy Asks Aid of Soviet Union.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The United States government sought through its embassy in Moscow tonight to solve the mystery of the reported disappearance in the Soviet capital of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Robinson, of New York.

The embassy reported to the State Department that efforts to find the American couple thus far had been unsuccessful and that it had asked the aid of the Soviet foreign office.

It was reported that Robinson disappeared from the National hotel in Moscow December 2. His wife said she was told by hotel employees that he had been taken to a hospital suffering from pneumonia.

Yesterday it was found that she, too, had vanished from the hotel, which adjoins the American embassy.

INDICTED MAYOR SAYS CHARGES GROUNDFLESS

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Mayor Meyer C. Ellenstein pleaded innocent today to seven indictments returned by the Essex county grand jury in its investigation of municipal affairs.

Three indictments charged conspiracy, and four malfeasance. Ellenstein was the 14th to plead innocent of the 27 indicted. The others have a week more to appear in court. The indictments were voted a week ago after an investigation of Meadowland transactions.

Georgia's 'First Lady', Son Visit Big Brothers' Historic Wax Museum

Volunteers for Annual Newspaper Sale To Care for City's Needy Continue To Sign; Jewish War Veterans To Give Radio Program Tonight.

Georgia's "First Lady" and E. D. Rivers Jr., son of the Governor, yesterday lent their support to the Big Brother campaign by paying a visit to the Big Brother sponsored wax museum, 60 Peachtree street.

Mrs. Rivers and her son toured the museum, which contains a number of wax figures of historical and educational interest. Started in 1790 the museum contains wax likenesses of each of the 32 presidents of the United States. In addition, great names in American and world history are there represented, as well as a number of colorful characters drawn from the American scene.

The Big Brother army is growing by leaps and bounds, but still more volunteers are needed for the annual paper sale on December 19. Mike Gilliland, chairman, paper sale committee, yesterday announced. "All volunteers, instead of answering by coupon, are requested to call Main 4610 or drop by headquarters at 58 Peachtree street."

The date of the grand charity ball is not far off and ticket sales for this event are brisk. Volunteers are requested to stop by headquarters and get a supply of tickets for their own use and for sale to friends.

Tonight's radio program, one of unusual quality, will go on the air at 8:30 o'clock over WATL. Sponsored by the Jewish War Veterans Post No. 112, the choir of the Congregation Ahavath Achim will give a concert under the leadership of Cantor Max M. Landman.

DAUGHTRY SUSPECT MISSING FROM JAIL

Whereabouts of Slain Man's Daughter Is Cloaked in Mystery.

STATESBORO, Ga., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The whereabouts of Marie Daughtry, missing for almost 17 years, in connection with the slaying of her wealthy father, was cloaked with mystery again tonight when officials reported she was no longer confined to the Bulloch county jail, and Solicitor W. G. Neville added "I don't know where she is."

The missing woman, one of five defendants indicted in the death last September of Charlie L. Daughtry, of Screven county, had been held in the Bulloch jail since her arrest some time ago.

Reports that she had left the jail with her new attorney and a deputy were first denied, and subsequently neither denied nor confirmed. Finally, both Sheriff Lowell Mallard and Solicitor Neville admitted that the woman was not in jail.

Solicitor Neville intimated that she may have left under a court order, but Judge William Woodrum, of the Ogeechee circuit, awakened at his home in Milledgeville, told newspapermen he had issued no such order, and as far as he knew Miss Daughtry was in the Bulloch jail.

40 FEARED KILLED AS TRAINS COLLIDE

Express Smashes Stationary Coaches in Scotland; 26 Bodies Found.

CASTLECARY, Scotland, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A crack Scottish express train, speeding through a blinding snowstorm tonight between Glasgow and Edinburgh, smashed into the rear end of another train and killed at least 26 persons.

Rescuers expressed the belief that between 30 and 40 were killed, making this the worst rail disaster in Great Britain since the Gresna Green wreck in 1915 when 158 died.

Working in the light of bonfires, made from the splintered coaches, rescue crews had removed 26 bodies from the wreckage late tonight. One of the rescuers clambered from the piled-up cars and said:

"There are more bodies inside—women, I think."

2 DIE IN GAS CHAMBER.

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Walter Caldwell, 37, and William Perry, 18, both negroes, were executed today in the state gas chamber. Caldwell was convicted of rape and Perry for the murder of a woman.

PAY BILL ATTACKED BY REPRESENTATIVE

that some administrator "can sit in Washington and say when, how and to what extent the south may utilize her industrial advantages to aid her own progress."

Intellectual Reds. "This whole proposal grows out of the hearts and minds of those intellectual Reds in America who actually are interested in achieving by stealth and by subterfuge and by usurpation a despotic form of government in place of our constitutional democracy in order that they may be the ones to wield the power which under free government and individual effort they have neither the wits, the determination, the energy nor the integrity to accomplish for themselves."

Representative Cox also said: "But so far-reaching and so dangerous are these changes I am compelled by a sense of love for my country, love for my party and concern for the posterity to which we of today must turn over this government and this nation, to speak out when I see steps being taken, encroachments being attempted and legislation being enacted which point unerringly toward a government by rather than by laws, the kind of government which burdens many of the old world nations of today, and which is utterly repugnant to every concept of free American democracy—the democracy of Jefferson, of Cleveland, and of the founding fathers who fought for the establishment of personal liberty on our shores, and who wrote into the constitution the guarantees of those liberties."

Denude South. "Let me say to you now that one of the underlying intentions of this wage-hour bill is to provide a board or some other administrative agency with the power to denude and deprive the south of certain climatic and raw material advantages, certain labor and living advantages which are now bringing us to the forefront of industrial advancement, in order to provide competing northern industries with a weapon by which to retard our advancement and to deprive us of our markets which we can and do possess by reason of these natural and other economic advantages."

"In other words, the purpose of the wage-hour bill is to put the industrial advancement of the south in a strait-jacket that some administrator can sit in Washington and say when, how and to what extent the south may utilize her industrial advantages to aid her own progress."

Fears Violation of Rights. "In utter violation of states rights, local self-government, local self-determination of our own sociological and economic problems, this act is to be foisted upon us so that an administrator sitting in Washington can send a host of regulators and field administrators down here to tell us the hours we shall work, the wages we shall pay, the industrial and labor and living standards to which our people and our industries shall conform, whether we like it or whether we don't, whether we want it or whether we don't."

"The very essence of the reason for state sovereignty is because the interests, the conditions and the requirements of the various sections of the United States are so diverse and so widely divergent as to render it economically and sociologically impossible to put America in a strait-jacket of industrial and agricultural and social regulation made to apply to every section and to all industry and all labor alike."

"There are industrialists who are supporting this wage-hour proposal because it is enforced it would tremendously handicap it not stop the present industry of the south and would paralyze our future efforts at industrial expansion."

"The organized negro groups of the country are supporting it because it will, in destroying state sovereignty and local self-determination, render easier the elimination and disappearance of racial and social distinctions, and by the concentration of this vast and despotic power in a political board or administrator in Washington, throw into the political field the determination of the standards and the customs which shall determine the relationship of our various groups of people in the south."

Urges Co-operation. "We need between industry and agriculture intelligent co-operation, not blind competition and warfare."

"We need between industry and labor intelligent co-operation, not blind force and hostility."

"We need in America intelligent co-operation on a basis of enlightened self-interest, not class and racial hatreds and strife."

"We need in America not to rob those who have to give to those who have not, but intelligent co-operation to enable the have-nots to acquire their own so they will not need that which others have."

"The best form of relief known to mankind is that form which helps the needy to relieve his own condition of need."

"Class hostilities and hatreds and selfish thinking never helped a nation to survive. We need a practical application of sound economics and sound sense and sound integrity to our problems in a concerted effort to eliminate the obstacles in the way of a renewed and continued prosperity."

BODY SOLVES MYSTERY OF MISSING AUDITOR

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The body of John A. Olsen, who disappeared Tuesday from the offices of a New York trust company where he was employed as an auditor, was found in an arroyo off Park Avenue today.

Police said he died from injuries received when he jumped or fell 12 feet from a porch of an unoccupied building. He was 65 years old and lived at Larchmont, New York.

ous consideration. After hesitating for a moment, Landon responded as though the question had been anticipated and as though he felt relieved at the answer he was making.

F.D.R. SAYS LANDON 'HAD BEST OF IT'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Former Governor Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, said after a White House visit today that President Roosevelt expressed the belief that Landon "had the best of it" in not being President.

The former Kansas governor said that in reply to Mr. Roosevelt's remark he told the story of two strangers who visited him recently while he was currying his horse in a barn.

One of the men asked if he was enjoying what he was doing and Landon replied: "Yep."

The other suggested that Landon was having a better time "than if you had got that job you were after last fall."

He agreed with his second questioner and added to newspapermen: "If I had gotten that job I wouldn't have been able to clean my horse."

"It is presumptuous to decline something that has not been offered to one," he said. "A short time ago, I would not have answered this question. However, recent developments have convinced me that my acts as a citizen, as the 1936 Republican candidate, frequently have been misconstrued."

Glad to Answer. "For that reason and because personalities frequently confuse the clear-cut consideration of problems in politics, I am glad to answer the question without any equivocation whatsoever."

"I have not had any intention of being a candidate in 1940 and in order that my position may be perfectly clear, I will not accept the nomination in the remote contingency that the Republican national convention should offer it to me."

START REPAIRS

Skeleton Crews Erect Scaffolds at Auditorium.

Skeleton crews yesterday began erection of scaffolds and other preliminary work preparatory to the placing of a full crew to repair the municipal auditorium, it was announced yesterday.

Councilman John A. White, chairman of council's public buildings committee, said about 20 men are now at work, and that others will be added from time to time until the full quota is established about December 15.

Robert L. MacDougall, state WPA projects director, said specifications already have been prepared for steel and advertisements will be made within the next few days.

GREYHOUND GETS OKAY FOR 326 NEW BUSES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized subsidiaries of the Greyhound corporation to issue a total of $3,512,000 equipment mortgage notes to finance the purchase of 326 new buses.

Note issues authorized included: Dixie Greyhound Lines, Inc., $180,000 for 15 buses.

Windsor Takes Golf Lessons New Row Flares Over Wallis's Status.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Iran Indians danced across a picture screen at Buckingham palace today on the first anniversary of the abdication of Edward VIII to marry the woman he loved.

The movie was shown especially for the young Princess Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, who show keen interest in the wharves than in their "Uncle," whose renunciation 11-year-old Elizabeth he sumptuous to the throne.

None of the royal family hint that just a year ago Edward decided to give up his throne for a woman. It was a malady in the lives of the royal actors in the drama of empire.

King Rests. King George VI rested a whirlwind tour of British industrial factories, engagements of the program by which sought to take the place of Edward, now the Duke of Windsor, self-exiled with his wife in Paris.

Elizabeth, who became queen because Wallis Warfield could see the Indian film with daughters.

Queen Mother Mary visited distribution display in a street newspaper office.

Windsor spent two and hours taking a lesson at a golf school; his Duchess stayed their hotel.

A new controversy, however, broke in London over her among the British nobility. current edition of Burke's published today, disclosed the twice-divorced American had ranked last of all the Dukes of the empire.

Some authorities insisted, ever, she should have taken from her husband, who was as fourth gentleman of the just below his two younger brothers, the royal Dukes of Gloucester and Kent.

Edward Third Duke. Burke listed Edward a third Duke but his wife a 29th Duchess following custom ranking peers and peeresses in order of creation of their titles less a patent of nobility specially placed them higher.

For was specifically named "royal highness" but his wife denied that designation by a patent issued May 27, 1937, their June marriage in France.

Consequently, Burke's list simply as the newest of the royal Dukes. She is addressed as "your grace."

As George VI the King has lowered patiently the program of his ministers to build up in the public eye as a counterpart of his beloved George V. Today he announced his decision to follow the George's custom and broadcast message to the empire Christmas afternoon from Sandringham, his father's favorite residence.

GREEN-CIO FIGHT GOES TO CONGRESS

Rivals on Opposite Side Pay-Hour Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The American Federation of labor and an important branch the Committee for Industrial organization carried their standing strife to congress in a controversy over the enactment of the wage-hour bill.

Almost simultaneously these developments occurred: William Green, president of federation, notified member the house that his organization was opposed to the bill as revised by the house labor committee, said it would give "life and powers" over labor, industry, whole communities to a single minister.

Homar Martin, president of United Automobile Workers America, a CIO affiliate, was house members who oppose measure that they "will not be gotten at next year's elections."

GROWING USE OF COTTONSEED OIL

Statistics of the United States Bureau of Internal Revenue reveal that during last October 20,153,442 pounds of cottonseed oil were used in the making of margarine, compared to 10,042,427 pounds in October of 1936. This represents an increased consumption of an important by-product of cotton by more than 100 per cent.

There is no clearer evidence than this that the dairy interests of the midwest, with probably the most powerful of all lobbies at Washington, are directly attacking an important domestic market when they endeavor to prevent the manufacture of margarine. The dairy lobby seeks that goal through increased taxes upon margarine to a point where it cannot be marketed at an acceptable price.

In addition to the tremendous increase in the consumption of cottonseed oil by the margarine manufacturers, the revenue bureau reveals that, comparing the same October, consumption of other domestic oils and fats is advancing rapidly. Soybean oil increased from 1,588,580 pounds in October, 1936, to 2,990,182 pounds in October, 1937; corn oil jumped from 5,935 pounds to 75,333 pounds, and the use of milk in margarine making rose from 6,729,966 pounds to 7,507,870 pounds.

At the same time, the use of imported oils slumped sharply, only 6,965,444 pounds of coconut oil being used by the margarine industry in October, 1937, compared to 13,619,040 pounds in the same month in 1936.

The total consumption of all domestic oils and fats for margarine in the first ten months of this year was 237,000,000 pounds, compared to 179,000,000 pounds for the same period in 1936, an increase of more than 32 per cent.

Margarine, properly made, is an economical, healthful, appetizing spread for bread, containing important vitamins for growing bodies as well as for adults. It is particularly important to that large section of the population which is unable to afford the more expensive dairy butter and which would be totally deprived of this necessary food if they could not buy the lower-cost margarine.

THE HERTY LABORATORY

The potential loss to the south in the threatened closing of the pulp and paper laboratory at Savannah on December 31 is too great to view with equanimity.

Established by Dr. Charles H. Herty some years ago, it was this laboratory which proved that newsprint and other papers could be made from pulp of the southern pine forests. That single discovery has brought to the south a new industry which has already involved investments mounting high in the millions and which has opened a new avenue to wealth for this section. There are already in operation, or in process of construction, 40 pine pulp plants and it is predicted there will be 100 within the next five years.

Despite this marvelous achievement, informed scientists state that merely the surface has been scratched of the potential industrial advance which this laboratory can accomplish if permitted to continue its experimental work.

The laboratory has been supported chiefly by the Chemical Foundation, but this source of revenue is closed at the end of this year. The state of Georgia has appropriated $10,000 a year for the two years beginning with July 1 last, but this sum is totally inadequate to keep the laboratory operating. Savannah interests have likewise contributed to the support of the institution.

It has been suggested that, in view of the fact that the Herty laboratory is of equal value to all the south, all southern states should be invited to contribute toward the $60,000 annual income needed to keep it in operation. The mere fact that it is located in Georgia does not limit its value to this state. In fact, the discoveries made at the laboratory have benefited all southern states in equal ratio.

A committee has been formed to seek ways and means of keeping the laboratory functioning after the first of the coming year. Governors of all the southern states have been asked for co-operation and assistance, while lumber and pulp interests of the south have also been requested to aid.

For the sake of the future development of southern resources and for the future prosperity of the south, it is earnestly to be hoped that the Herty laboratory does not have to close.

THE POOR KID!

Freddie Bartholomew, 13-year-old boy star of the screen, testifying at a court hearing to decide whether his aunt or his parents or a trust company shall have control of his large earnings, spoke in behalf of the aunt.

"My reason is very aptly illustrated," he said, "by the fact that while my aunt had charge of my affairs once before for a little over a year, she saved $20,000, but since the other parties have taken over the estate, it has depleted very rapidly."

The poor kid! It is not difficult to vision, by reading that testimony, a prematurely adult, pedantic, overwise youngster who has lost, forever, all the joy of natural boyhood. He speaks in the words of a precise clerk of 30, instead of in the language of happy childhood.

It is evident that, in the story of Freddie, the victim of all the struggles for guardianship over him and his estate, is the boy himself. Film fame and its material emoluments have wrought tragedy with a young life. He may not today realize that fact, but no boy of 13 who talks of his "depleted estate" and complacently approves the saving of a sum like $20,000, is, truly, a boy. He has lost something, because of his precocious success and its attendant wealth, worth far more than many times the $20,000 saving of which he boasts.

No freckled, ragged, barefoot boy who wanders beside a mountain stream and counts his money in terms of cents and nickels, need envy Freddie. For the ragged boy has something that, in later years, the young screen star will be willing to give all he possesses, in vain, to recall.

That is carefree, natural, untainted boy freedom. They have wrought tragedy, those who have rapaciously fought for the control of Freddie's money, and their slain victim is the boy that Freddie might, so happily, have been.

ATLANTA AND MAGAZINES

According to a report in The Public Opinion Quarterly, published at Princeton, N. J., Atlanta is an omnivorous reader of magazines, but doesn't rank so high when the quality of the city's favorite reading matter is considered.

To make the survey in question, 25 representative American magazines were checked on their circulation figures in the 90 cities in the United States with 100,000 population or more.

For amount of magazine reading, Atlanta stands 20th in the list of 90. The best civic customer for all the magazines is Miami, with Washington in second place. Kansas City tails the list.

It is pointed out that the size of a city has much to do with its magazine reading habits. Up to a certain size, magazine circulation increases in faster ratio than population, but in the largest industrial cities, the circulation rate drops as the city gets bigger.

The 25 magazines included typical examples of those publications commonly classed as "high brow," as well as those which are concerned chiefly with news developments of the world. There were also examples of the "confession" and "true story" types, as well as the leaders in the fiction group.

Comparing the magazine figures on a cultural basis, Atlanta drops from 20th place, for quantity, to 59th place for quality. In other words, it is the cruder types of magazines which enjoy the best sales here.

An interesting angle is that in cities where those publications dealing with the screen sell heavily, there is a correspondingly large scale of the more sensational types of fiction magazines.

Incidentally, on the cultural ranking, Denver tops the list, with Yonkers in second place, San Francisco in third and Memphis at the bottom. Atlanta trails Houston and Reading, but is ahead of Akron and Detroit.

And Miami, top of them all for quantity, falls to 74th place on a question of quality in reading.

Editorial of the Day

GERMANY'S CHAPLAINS SPEAK

(From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

Germany is a house divided against itself. The evidence is at hand. It cannot be dismissed as propaganda or sneered down in obscene invective. The petition addressed to Chancellor Hitler by the chaplains of the armed forces is an instrument of power, augury and thrilling courage.

It is not too much to say that the chaplains of the armed forces are the spokesmen of the army. But common sense must assume that a protest so documented, so studiously and gravely phrased, so bristling with facts, could never have been officially filed without the considerable support of army sentiment.

In the absolutism of Hitler's rule, every statement of fact in this revolutionary arraignment must be accepted as true.

It must be true, as stated, that since 1934, 1,300 of Germany's 18,000 Protestant pastors have been arrested and put in prison for various terms.

It must be true, as stated, that a commander of the storm troops, speaking at Halle, referred to Jesus as "that swine," and that teachers in their classrooms have called Him "that Jewish tramp."

It must be true, as stated, that the state and the party not only combat the churches and their political activities. They combat Christianity itself.

It must be true, as stated, that "in the training camps of the party it is repeatedly explained that national Socialism has three enemies: Judaism, Masonry and Christianity."

We can assess this remonstrance at its face value by reflecting that in a country where to be suspected is to be guilty, where a whisper of criticism, if overheard, means swift arrest, a group of churchmen associated with the army has dared to accuse the all-powerful state.

That this accusation confirms the world's opinion of conditions in Germany may not be intelligently questioned. Its revival of pagan myths and neo-pagan practices were grotesque if it were not so dementedly tragic. Religious freedom has been all but extinguished in Germany, and such a conclusion was the logical terminal when inaugurated by ghoulishly barbarous persecution of the Jews.

Freedom, political or religious, simply does not operate on an installment plan, or by preference. Freedom exists as the constitutional prerogative of all law-abiding citizens, or assuredly, for none.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Governor Aiken, of Vermont.

When the Governor of Vermont speaks his mind on the Republican party, the Republican party can hardly refuse to listen, since Vermont was one of the two states which voted against the New Deal in 1936. It is all the more interesting that the Governor denounces a Republican program more drastically liberal than the one which carried the state. His energetic demand for a change of leadership, for casting out the old reactionaries, for affirming genuine liberal principles, and appealing to youth to "help produce and distribute a larger volume of goods and services to all" is characteristic of Governor Aiken and of the little state which he represents.

Governor Aiken comes from Putney, and he is a gardener, a nurseryman, and the author of one of the best books extant on American wild flowers. I have never known a gardener, now that I think of it, who was either a stuffy old man or a reactionary. And if you spend your life producing hybrid delphiniums, acclimatizing Alpine plants, and naturalizing wild flowers, I don't see how you can be very deeply committed to the theory of laissez-faire. Gardening is a continual struggle not to let nature take its course. Every perennial plant was once a weed, but the gardener has no passion for weeds. My own garden, in July, is to quote Ruskin, on the river Rhone—like the "glass of a painted window melted in the sun, sky-blue, peacock blue, river, paradise blue, aquamarine, ultramarine," with Mr. Aiken's delphiniums, whom nature never made that way.

A horticulturist is a planner—but not a hasty one. Nobody pulled that incredible spire of flowers, their eyes cool black, their petals mauve or violet-blue, out of a hat or a blue print. It took time and careful experiment. A clear cerise phlox that does not go magenta on you is a piece of planned eugenics, and so is a frilled and orchid-colored petunia. But the gardener is careful about generalizing. The wood ashes from the kitchen stove are fine for the lawn, but don't try them on the rhododendrons or azaleas. Sun is everything to a garden—but plant the fox-gloves and the monk's hood in the shade. In gardening, there can always be too much of anything—even of a good thing.

Gardeners are patient, too. They have to be. And the rule is: if a thing is growing all right where it is, don't move it. Maybe the peonies would look a little better somewhere else, but just there, where they get the sun, and yet are somewhat shaded from the wind, just there they have blossomed every June for the last nine years, huge creamy, rosy blossoms, drenching the evening with dewy fragrance. So, for heaven's sake, leave well enough alone!

Good gardeners know their limitations. One can't, for instance, change the north into the south, or vice versa. Don't hope to grow hybrid tea roses on a Vermont mountain top. Don't yearn for magnolias. The common lilac has its points. Age will not wither it; 80 below zero will not destroy it; custom will never stale it. You can prune it into a tree to reach the roof and pierce your bedroom window with its scented candles. You can build it into a wall for privacy. Its dark-green, heart-shaped leaves are glossy until the snows. Who lives with lilacs need no bougainvilleas.

Gardeners are humane. Don't fear flowers off their stems; don't trample the beds; don't dig up plants and forget to trench them until they find another home. If you do, the gardener's eyes will blaze at you, and he will hold you in contempt, for a barbarian. His whole passion in life is to make the world more comely. I never knew a gardener who didn't shudder at a slum.

My dear father spent his life trying to save souls—with his pockets full of sweet-pea seeds, which he dispensed along with prayers for the discouraged and milk for the baby. "Plant them deep," he would warn. "Sweet-peas are cool flowers. Plant them early, in deep, cool earth, and give them lots of water. Let us pray." God and sweet-peas were, somehow, indissolubly linked in his mind, along with Elizabethan poetry—which was often most ungodly.

Aiken, the nurseryman from the state of Vermont, is a bit horrified at all the radical social innovations in the New Deal. He is only pained that so many petunias that should be blue, turn out magenta after all. The "rosy dawns" turn out a gloomy shade. People who claim to be gardeners should do their pruning more carefully. But just now he has been directing his remarks at the Republicans, "a party of old men whose leaders are apparently more concerned with controlling the party machinery than in American welfare; a party in a nearly complete state of demoralization."

"Gentlemen," he says, in effect, "attend to your hoeing. Pull up the aversive weeds that choke the flowers. Turn over the soil, counteract the acid, let in the air, disperse the shade, get access to the sunlight. Wake up! And hear the birds sing!"

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

For troubles come, Life's joy seems gone, The days are dark, Hope pales, grows wan; Thank God, through all, That Life goes on.

A Vocal Give-Away.

He is, apparently, a quite respectable citizen. Well dressed, lives in a nice home. Just a normal, aging man of reasonably good habits and moderate, comfortable business success, you'd say.

I know him slightly.

The other day, by chance, I overheard him address his daughter. A nice girl, around 20 years old.

The tone of his voice as he called to that girl, was a revelation. So irascible and mean it sounded hateful in my ears. Occasionally, in moments of extreme irritation, I may shout at my dog in similar tone, but not often.

I don't know them, personally, but ever since hearing him shout at that girl, his family has been receiving a pretty large proportion of my normal supply of sympathy for unfortunate folks.

A Letter From Hollywood.

Received a personal letter the other day from a friend who lives in Hollywood. He mentioned an evening he recently spent at the Beverly-Wilshire, one of the more prominent night spots. Spoke of one of the best known comedienne of screen and radio. Here's what he wrote:

"One of the most obnoxious girls in Hollywood was there. She was drunk. Got up in front of the band, cracked dirty jokes and sang double meaning songs until she was led from the platform. She was so disgusting everyone booed her."

The lady's employers and sponsors had better, it seems to me, take steps to control her off-duty antics or she'll be reflecting an undesirable repute in her work.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Wednesday, December 11, 1912:

"The revelation that nearly $10,000 had been shovled at him by 'smokeless' furnace interests seeking special privileges was made by Paul McMichael, Atlanta's smoke inspector, when he tendered his resignation to the smoke board, yesterday afternoon."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Sunday, December 11, 1887:

"A matrimonial wave is truly passing over Augusta. There are no less than half-a-dozen marriages in high life to take place between now and January 15th."

Literary Genius.

Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of the enduring "Little Lord Fauntleroy," was born in England in 1849. She was 17, and living in Tennessee, when she sold her first story for $20. It was so finished a piece of work that the editor of Godey's Lady's Book, to whom it was sent, wouldn't believe she wrote it until she wrote another story.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

By Way of NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—There was a "Illustration" poker game—two rich guys and four other guys. The four other guys didn't have any money to speak of, but the rich guys had to deal them in because you can't play two-handed poker, and it is no fun high-spading back and forth. The poor guys were necessary for a quorum.

So the house said, "We are going to have to relegate the kitty in this game. If one of you rich guys wins a pot you have to kick back up to 80 per cent. Then we will use part of it to stake the poor guys when they run out of chips. The rest of it we will use to pay for the sandwiches and beer and the porters and rent and the cops and all."

At first the rich guys thought this was fair enough. It was a nice, comfortable joint, and they had been doing all right.

But after a while they began to mutter about the kitty, and there came a terrible squawk when one of them took down a real big pot. He reached for the pot, but just then the house said, "hold on a minute, chum, till we figure this out. Let's see. You took four and six-ten and eight-uns-eight is sixty-four, plus 30 per cent surtax and how about that stack of blues I saw you stick into your side pocket? We will have to charge you 80 per cent penalty for that evasion."

"Evasion?" the guy yelled. "What do you mean—evasion? This pocket is my holding company. Get out the book. Get it out. Show me where it says you can't put your chips in your side pocket or your flask pocket or any pocket you want to. It's a free country."

Isn't That Reasonable? "Makes no never-never mind about a free country," the house said. "We got to take care of these poor guys or you won't be lucky up in a fight, and you will be lucky you don't lose your pants. And the sandwiches and beer and the porters and the rent and the cops and all. Listen! You guys get as much sandwiches and beer and heat and light as anybody else."

"Sandwiches and beer is all right," the rich guy said, "but how about all this caviar and champagne you are slopping around, anyway, the joint is overheated and the light's too bright. It hurts my eyes. You are wasting a lot of dough."

"Oh, shut up," one of the poor guys said, "or we will dump your rich mugs down the dumbwaiter and take over and run some other kind of game. We will deal blackjack just among ourselves and with your dough."

"You and who else?" the rich guy said. "Me and my pals here," the poor guy said, and with that he made a pass at the rich guy, who yelled to the house, "Hey! Give a look. Can't you keep order in the joint? Why don't you hire some more bouncers with all that kitty you are squandering around for caviar and wine and statues in the hallway?"

Now Laugh This Off

"But, listen," the other rich guy said to the house, "I'm a right guy. I'm all for your idea of staking these mugs out of the kitty to keep the game going, but put yourself in my place. Here I risk a whole hatful of chips and play my cards right while these dopes are raising on the draw to inside straights and bobtailed flushes, and when I win a pot you are right there with that big mitt. How about it if it comes a time when I can't win for losing three or four times around, you are killing my initiative and enterprise acting like this. Why should I toss in eight inches of my good, hard-earned blues to win a couple of lousy little whites?"

The poor guys laughed out loud at the mention of "hard-earned" blues, and the house, who was kind of tough, especially toward the rich guys, said "economic royalist" and "well-fed clubman," and called for a new deal. The rich guys got pretty sick of the term "New Deal."

But the house began to notice that no matter how much kitty the poor guys got they were always broke. One poor guy proposed dividing up all the dough equally and another had some scheme to let the poor guys go shy and take down the amount they were shy, even if they lost.

Then, in the hope of stimulating the game, the house just abandoned the regular rules and began to deal a lot of crazy games like seven-toed Pete and high-low with the red sevens and the one-eyed Jacks wild.

"This ain't poker," one of the rich guys said finally. "This ain't even rummy or casino or anything. Cash in. I'm going to quit."

At this the four poor guys shoved back their chairs, grabbed pool cues and barred the door, but the house reached for the rich guys' pile and began to count up. "Set down! Set down!" the house said to the poor guys. "If he wants to cash in he can cash in. But when a rich guy cashes in we take down 60 or 80 per cent, according to how much he has got. We call it the inheritance tax."

Another Letter From a Ba

Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

My Dear Louise: Though our fortunate land seems happy and prosperous secure, the whole world is stumbling blindly on the verge catastrophe.

There is war in Europe and Asia now, and evil and heart men are doing their utmost to array class against class and against race in a merciless battle for control of the earth.

These evil men are shrewd. Knowing that property owner every land are afraid of Communism, they disarm criticism denouncing as Communists all who oppose them. It is an ancient trick, yet it still fools people who form their opinions from hearsay without examining the evidence.

I cannot let you be fooled that way, for your generation is dreadful dangers and all dangers are multiplied by ignorance the truth.

You have been fooled about Spain. You think the Spaniards who are loyal to the government are wild Communists and sworn enemies of everybody who has anything.

But they aren't. They are simply poor people, long kept in ignorance and subjection, who desire what our forefathers did in 1776.

Here is their platform, summarized by Elliot Paul, who is among them for years: Restrain the church from political activity; redistribute the big unused estates, so the common people buy farms; make all citizens equal before the law; establish self-government; reform the civil service; and break up the monopoly of commerce held by a few rich families.

That seems little to ask. We sing the praise of colonial Americans who possessed the courage and manhood to demand and almost the same things.

The Spaniards made a revolution and threw off the government of a King, as our forefathers did. Then, the common, unprivileged people, being a majority, won control of the nation a fair election and began to make laws that would give them freedom and the rights and the decent opportunities that we Americans enjoy.

For that they are called Communists, and the nations that freedom have invaded their land to subject or kill them. These are mighty forces in the world now determined to stroy all liberty everywhere. They condemn our country, too, they regard democracy as an evil closely akin to Communism. Freedom is endangered as never before in modern times. needs the loyalty and support of every friend. Don't betray it cause lying tyrants call it false names.

Love, DAD.

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

The World's Hodge-Podge.

NEW YORK.—For the second time in less than a week the state department has warned the imperial government of Japan that the United States will take an "extremely grave view" of any interference Japan's part with the customs revenues in China, Japan, at this moment of writing, has not deigned to reply. But that warning has a deeper international significance which did not go unobserved in the countries belonging to the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo triangle.

The significance is that these states must henceforth know that the interests of the United States of America coincide with those of the Soviet Union in the Far East. In other words: there can be little hope of drawing America into some united front against Russia.

In spite of the general disapproval of the ideology current in Russia by the American people, this country stands nearer to Russia than to Japan. In fact, Litvinoff has said it once with his usual bluntness that Russia, by assuming an intransigent attitude toward Japan's expansionism, is actually holding the fort in the Far East for Britain and the U. S. A.

From France comes word that the leaders of the Popular Front and especially the Communists suddenly have developed a lukewarm attitude toward the Loyalist cause in Spain. At last the cat comes out of the bag. What we have always maintained as clear as daylight now: there is not the slightest possibility of establishing a Communist regime in Spain.

There never was. Even the Muscovites themselves realize that in now. General Franco can have his way, on condition that he protects the interests of Britain in the contracts for iron-ore from the Basque region and the Riff plateau in North Africa.

Kenamer Refuses
Trial Plea in Court

Dec. 10.—(P)—Royers and his 21-year-old wife, were convicted to murdering James Revels, the husband charged at Mrs. Weathers. They were sentenced to life imprisonment.

A federal court jury which the case began its deliberations before noon and rendered a verdict of guilty of first murder without capital punishment for both defendants after 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Owens, defense attorney, motion for a new trial, but Charles B. Kennamer denied immediately and pronounced the life sentences.

Weathers, Wife Must Serve Life for Murder

Roy Weathers, 23, and his 21-year-old wife, Virgie (above), yesterday were found guilty of the murder of James Revels, youthful Christian, in Chickamauga Park last August. Sentence of life imprisonment was imposed in U. S. court in Rome by Judge Charles B. Kennamer.

PRINGLE FUNERAL TO BE HELD TODAY

Rites for Architect Will Be Conducted at St. Luke's Episcopal.

Funeral services for Robert Smith Pringle, Atlanta architect and designer of many buildings and residences here, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Luke's Episcopal church.

Bishop H. J. Mikell and Dr. John Moore Walker, officiate. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Members of the Georgia chapter, American Institute of Architects, of which Mr. Pringle was a past president; the vestry of St. Luke's church, and officers and directors of the Fulton National Bank will act as honorary escort.

Mr. Pringle, who died Thursday afternoon at his home, 804 Oakdale road, was 54. He succumbed to a heart ailment following a brief illness, although he had been in poor health for the past three years.

Mr. Pringle came to this city in 1907, after five years in Columbia, S. C., where he began his architectural practice. H. M. Patterson & Son are in charge of arrangements.

Executor of Estate.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—(P)—Harold S. Vanderbilt, international yachtsman, who kept the America's cup in the United States, today lost a verdict in the United States circuit court of appeals.

As executor of the estate of Mrs. Alva E. Belmont, prominent suffrage leader, Vanderbilt was ordered to pay $31,425.14 deficiency tax when the court ruled that the National Woman's Party was political and not educational.

Vanderbilt had appealed a decision of the United States Board of Tax Appeals that a $100,000 gift by Mrs. Belmont to the party was taxable. He contended that the contribution was exempt as the organization was for education purposes.

9 NEGROES DIE

Burned When Trapped in House While Asleep.

CAPE CHARLES, Va., Dec. 10.—(P)—Nine persons, all negroes, burned to death at their home near Bridgetown, Northampton county, Virginia, Tuesday night, it was learned today.

The fire, of undetermined origin, broke out after members of the two families, who shared the house, had retired. The nine victims, apparently asleep on the upper floor, were burned beyond recognition.

MADDOX IS ELECTED TO HEAD REALTORS

$2,000 Homestead Exemption
Urged Upon General Assembly.

SAVANNAH, Dec. 10.—(P)—The Georgia Real Estate Association urged the general assembly today to "take cognizance of the mandate of the voters of the state in ratifying the $2,000 homestead exemption."

This was one of several resolutions adopted at the closing session of the annual convention in which the association also elected Paul C. Maddox, of Atlanta, president and chose Macon for the next meeting place.

Another resolution asked repeal of the ad valorem tax on real estate for state purposes, or a material reduction in the levy. The convention also advocated reapportionment of Josiah Flournoy, of Columbus, as chairman of the Georgia Real Estate Commission.

Maddox was elevated from the vice presidency to succeed William C. Gilbert Jr., Savannah. Other new officers included I. L. Domingos, Macon, vice president; Hal Powell, Augusta, secretary; and J. H. Callas, Savannah, treasurer.

Louis Greeno, Savannah; L. B. Thompson, Macon, and Sharpe D. Wall, Atlanta, were named directors.

Among speakers at today's session were Vincent P. Bradley, of Trenton, N. J., sales consultant of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and James H. Allen, executive of a bag and paper corporation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Mrs. Lena Schlesinger announced today the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Ruth, to Mr. Henry Berday—who almost got the daylight knocked out of him recently when his automobile collided with one driven by the bride-to-be.

Berday crawled out of a smashed door across a crumpled fender and snarled: "My name's Berday; let's see your driver's permit."

"My name's Schlesinger—Ruth Schlesinger," the girl said, "and I'm so sorry I smashed your new automobile."

"Sorry, hell," Berday replied. "Dumb women like you got no business driving a car. Where do you live?"

He wrote down her name and address and said she would be hearing from him, all right, and maybe a lawyer could come around, too.

Berday was very business-like when he called at her home to discuss the amount of damages. He had a list of things that had happened to his automobile and an estimate from a garage on what it would cost to fix everything.

Conversation Drifts.
In the latter half of the evening, however, they seemed to drift off to other things such as whether Loy is better than Dietrich and is swinging music here to stay? At the end of the evening they agreed the digressions had made it impossible to clear up all the business about the automobile damages and Berday suggested they have another conference the following Sunday night. Miss Schlesinger said she guessed that would be okay.

The wedding will be Sunday at the Broadway Central hotel. Miss Schlesinger plans to give up her driver's license immediately after the ceremony.

Union Claims 300 in Assembly Plant Will Not Report Monday.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10.—(P)—The United Automobile Workers of America called a strike today at Kansas City's Ford assembly plant. One hundred and fifty police promptly arrested all 49 men who attempted picketing.

The UAWA local said the strike call was too late to affect today the 300 men it claims among the 1,100 now at work, but that they would not report back Monday.

H. C. Doss, plant manager, said the plant would reopen Monday after the usual week-end shutdown.

The union charged discrimination in calling men back to work after a seasonal layoff.

At Detroit, Richard T. Frankenstein, assistant president of the UAWA, said the strike was planned originally for Monday but was moved up after shots were fired last night at the home of the Kansas City local's financial secretary, Patrick D. Monroe.

MEDIATION BY U. S. OPPOSED BY SEAMEN.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(P)—Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union, told the house merchant marine committee the proposal to have the Railway Mediation Board handle seamen's labor troubles would amount to compulsory arbitration and was the "first step in a general drive for coercive legislation against labor."

Curran also protested against a proposed amendment to the ship subsidy act which would permit subsidized construction of American vessels in foreign yards if domestic costs became twice as high as those of foreign builders.

WAR SECRETS BAN DEMANDED LIFTED BY SENATE GROUP

Nye, Clark and Bone Try To Force State Department
Revelations.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(P)—Criticism of secrecy maintained by the State Department over important international documents broke out late today in the senate when Senators Nye, Republican, North Dakota; Clark, Democrat, Missouri; and Bone, Democrat, Washington, demanded full publicity be given to documents relating to America's entrance into the World War and more recent international secrets.

Clark said that with war clouds "hanging in both hemispheres" the American people were entitled to full knowledge of secret papers that might guide this nation's policies.

Senator Bone said "ignorance may cost the lives of hundreds of thousands of American boys. Perhaps American boys will be butchered like cattle because congress lacked the courage of looking into the archives of the State Department."

W. C. Rice Critically Injured in Accident.

Struck by an auto as he crossed Edgewood avenue at Equitable place, W. C. Rice, 50, of 355 Formwalt street, was admitted to Grady hospital yesterday in critical condition. The car skidded 82 feet before it could be halted, police reported. Thomas McCollum, 19, of 493 Tifton street, was arrested and charged with reckless driving accident. Radio Patrolmen T. J. Avery and W. F. Sutherland said. McCollum was released on bond. Witnesses said the driver halted, backed up and took the injured man to the hospital.

Father Refuses To Relent, May Face Life in Jail

CARLISLE, Pa., Dec. 10.—(P)—Stubbornly demanding "my rights," Jack March came from behind jail bars long enough tonight to hear himself sentenced to another 50 days in prison, then went back again to face what might be life imprisonment—unless he changed his mind about having his son vaccinated.

The South Manhattan farm "hired man," arrested twice before in the past four years on similar charges, came before Justice of the Peace William Dosh for his fifty-sixth hearing.

It was his twenty-sixth day of imprisonment under the current string of sentences—five days at a time for each day that his son, Eugene, seven, doesn't attend school. The law does not permit admission of boys and girls who aren't vaccinated.

"Do you want to change your mind?" asked the magistrate. "Never," replied March. Supervising Principal W. G. Rice, of the South Middleton township school district, coaxed the father to relent.

"Go ahead, John," he urged; "change your mind." "No, sir, I'll not change my mind," March insisted. "I only ask for my rights."

Court Permits Marriage Of Girl 13 and Boy 20

OPELOUSAS, La., Dec. 10.—(P)—A marriage license was issued here today to Hazel Landry, 13, and Elie Noel, 20, both of Arnaudville, under the special order of Judge Isom Guillory.

Clerk of Court Henry Lastrop, who issued the license, said it was not the first time such an order had been made by the court and that Hazel "was by no means" the first child bride in St. Landry parish. He explained that the license was issued under a special legislative act requiring a court order even though a child has the consent of both parents.

28 CASES OF LIQUOR SEIZED IN 2 RAIDS

Camouflaged Whisky Consigned to Well-Known Atlantans From West.

Twenty-two cases of liquor, shipped in cases marked "mineral oil," "liquid varnish" and "liquid soap," were confiscated yesterday at a railway express depot near Terminal station, by Detectives R. R. Davis and J. A. Bailey, and Atlantans who hoped to quench a thirst on Christmas Day are disappointed.

The 22 cases were consigned to well-known Atlantans and prominent clubs. The shipments included "packaged goods" from Jacksonville and Columbus, Ga.

Six other cases of liquor, labeled "syrup" and "imported wine," were seized when Patrolmen C. M. Cloud and Ben Hensler, of DeKalb county police, halted an express truck on Elmira place, just off McClendon avenue.

J. B. Smith, alleged to be the truck driver, and O. B. Holland, a passenger on the truck, were charged with possessing and transporting liquor. The shipment came from Albany and Columbus, the officers reported.

Constitution of United States Outlined for Essay Contest

By WILLIAM W. BREWTON,
Director, State Sesquicentennial Commission.

ARTICLE 12. THE CONSTITUTION EMERGES.

One word must be remembered forever if the Constitution is to be understood—compromise. Not a single deputy got what he desired. Yates, Lansing, Martin, Davie and others quit the convention because they did not. Randolph, Gerry and Mason stayed but refused to sign because they did not win their desires. Madison did not, but he was glad to get a stronger federal government, if he couldn't get a nation.

The next most important word to be remembered is—law. The Constitution is a law, not a compendium of ethical ideas or "glittering generalities" such as the Declaration of Independence. It says it is the supreme law of the land, was adopted by the convention as such and ratified by the states as such.

The preamble, very beautifully worded, is like the Declaration but it is not a part of the Constitution proper, which really begins with Article I. In it the powers of congress, the "legislative," are named.

In Article II we find the President or "executive" provided for with fixed powers. In Article III, the supreme court or "judicial," which, though listed last, of the three departments of the federal government, has come first in many supreme crises. All three have usurped powers never given them, which brought disunion and war in the case of the first two and perpetuation of partial government in the case of the third. None of these sad ends could have come about had the government and the people been willing to live under their own Constitution, once agreed to.

On August 7 a preamble was adopted that listed all the states by name, including the absent Rhode Island. On August 31 the convention adopted a proposition that the ratification of nine states would be sufficient to establish the Constitution between the states ratifying. Nine could be under it, but since it could not be told which states would make the nine, nor that all the states would adopt it, it became necessary to say "We the people of the United States" instead of "We the people of the states of" etc. Any number would be United States. This preamble was adopted when the whole Constitution was adopted on Saturday, September 15, 1787.

Tomorrow: The Ratification.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Thursday.—This has been an interesting day. Dr. Will Alexander, the administrator of the Farm Security Administration in the Department of Agriculture, and I went out to the Greenbelt (Md.) project this morning to see what changes had come about since last spring.

House after house is now occupied, a temporary co-operative store is open, a school is functioning, and this place, which had only workmen when I was there before, is now a real community. I was amused to have the young mayor tell me that everyone wanted to hold meetings and start community activities, and that, though they had not grown up together, everybody wanted to know everybody else.

They have no street lamps as yet to relieve the darkness at night, but they tell me when all the houses are lit up, it is most attractive. As an example of the neighborly spirit which exists, I was told one woman coming down to the postoffice after dark heard a voice say: "Good evening," and responded promptly, "Good evening; may I know who you are?"

They have had some of the usual vicissitudes which accompany new houses and new settlements. Two houses leaked, the bus company, which had practically agreed to give the community transportation service, backed out on second thought. But these difficulties have been surmounted. The houses have been repainted and the bus is now being run on a co-operative basis, which shows that, with the right kind of determination, difficulties can be conquered.

One of the most interesting stories was the story of the establishment of the nursery for trees and shrubs. When the ground was being cleared, one of the men on WPA remarked that it was a shame to destroy so many good plants. Enough could be salvaged to landscape the entire community, he said.

The people in charge asked him what he knew about gardening and discovered he had been brought over from England to take charge of one of the estates of a very rich gentleman, who decided when the depression came along that the proper way to economize was to get rid of his employees, so here was an excellent gardener on WPA. He was given the chance to salvage everything he could. Most of the things he salvaged have lived in the nursery and he has done every bit of the landscaping with material taken out of the woods on the property.

We returned in time for an informal lunch with a group of executives, all of whom are interested in youth agencies and who have found it possible to get together to discuss how their various departments can function in co-operation with each other. If this can be done in Washington and carried down into the states, it will mean that more can be accomplished and there will be less duplication. I am particularly interested in this group, for I feel the federal government should take the lead in getting the maximum co-operation on all its projects for the good of the people.

No. 1441.

SOFT AFTERNOON FROCK WITH THE NECKLINE.

For the holiday parties that lie ahead, have this pretty frock worn by Andrea Leeds of the Goldwyn Follies. It is a dress of flattering lines with pretty lifted waistline and smooth midriff. Note the softly draped bodice and short, puffed sleeves. A graceful flare is given the silhouette with a bias cut skirt, full enough to emphasize the wasp-like waistline. The softly tied bow at the neck adds a flattering touch. Choose a material that drapes easily—thin wool, silk crepe or satin—and make it for your own wardrobe with pattern No. 1441.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1441 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 (32) requires 4-5 yards of 39-inch material.

Pattern No. 1441 can be purchased for 15 cents. Please remit in coins, giving your name, address, pattern number and size. Do not send stamps. Mail orders to Barbara Bell Pattern Dept., The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Strickland-Sapp.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 10.—L. J. Strickland announces the marriage of his daughter, Alma Nora, to Oscar Fred Sapp, of Waycross, which took place in Blackshear, November 27 with T. J. Strickland, uncle of the bride, officiating. Mr. Sapp is the eldest son of R. Sapp, of Douglas.

Party for Circle.

Mrs. C. H. Glass, 1735 Rogers avenue, S. W., will entertain members of Circle No. 6 of the Gordon Street Baptist W. M. U. on Tuesday at 11 o'clock.

Each member is requested to bring an inexpensive gift to be placed on the Christmas tree. Mrs. W. S. Coker will present the program. Mrs. Thomas F. Harvey, wife of the pastor, and Mrs. H. H. Cathcart, president of the W. M. U., will be special guests. Mrs. George D. Hitchcock is chairman of the circle.

HERE'S A GAY INDOOR GARDEN EASY TO PLANT AND CARE FOR

You want an indoor garden—

but haven't time to fuss over it? For you is this lovely combination of sansevieria, a plummy Boston fern and French or Roman hyacinths.

Even in a dark corner the sansevieria faithfully sends up its tall, graceful leaves.

When you have more foliage than you want—snip off some leaves close to the soil. Cut them in pieces as the diagram shows and plant in soil. The pieces root quickly and the little rows of solidly green spikes are charmingly decorative in long dishes or bowls of ivory or a gay color.

Perhaps you hesitate about adding the plummy Boston fern—because you've never had much luck with ferns. It's all in the watering. About every five days, set your fern in a pan of water deep enough to cover the pot. Leave until air bubbles stop rising. Finish with a leaf bath and your fern will stay vigorous and lovely.

It helps, too, to be on guard against drafts, gas and excessive heat. All ferns hate them.

As for flowers, there are so many kinds of bulbs you can force easily—why should you ever be without fragrant blooms indoors? One of the loveliest is the French or Roman hyacinth. All you need to do to force it into bloom in a few weeks is to put the bulbs in a bowl of fiber and water and keep them in a dark cool spot until root growth starts.

Don't crowd your bowl. Keep the water level just high enough to wet the base of each bulb and beautiful pink and blue hyacinths will reward you.

More pointers on easy-to-grow plants are given in our 40-page booklet, "Success With House Plants and Flowers." Terrariums, dish gardens, ferns, vines, bulbs, flowering plants, pests.

Your Figure, Madam

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

GROW YOUNGER AS YOU GROW SLIMMER.

It can happen to you! Just when you are struggling the hardest to lose weight some candid friend will say, "Don't lose so much weight that it makes you look old" and will then add, too quickly to be comforting, "Not that you do, of course!"

This remark may have just enough truth in it to hurt. There is no sidestepping the fact that reducing can be an aging process. You replace fat either with firm contours or with wrinkles. That "reduced look" is the price you pay for quick changes in weight, or for going on an inadequate diet which drains the vitality. If you want to look younger as you reduce you must avoid aging mistakes.

Protect your skin as you slim down. Follow a balanced diet to nourish the skin, exercise to increase tonicity, and reduce so gradually that the skin contracts as you lose in weight.

The skin is like a piece of elastic. During considerable weight gains the skin is unduly stretched and if long distended it tends to lose part of its elasticity. In an abrupt loss of considerable weight the skin is unable to accommodate itself quickly to this change in weight, and it slackens into folds and wrinkles.

Age itself is a factor in skin contraction. As one grows older the skin loses in elasticity, which means increased caution in reducing after middle age.

The skin's contractility is increased with exercise. Well-toned and well-rounded muscles help to fill out the skin and to prevent wrinkles. When weight is lost without benefit of exercise, flabbiness results.

On a balanced diet with sufficient calories to cover two-thirds your energy expenditure, you do not get that spent, haggard look which follows a partial starvation menu. You should have daily: lean meat, skimmed milk and eggs, fresh fruits and fresh vegetables. Another serious mistake likely to be made by the overambitious reducer is that of reducing too far. It may be that normal weight for you is slightly above the streamline standard. You look best at the weight at which you feel best. Be careful not to over-reduce.

"Don't lose so much weight that you'll look old."

While dieting, see that you drink plenty of water, for this helps to carry off wastes from the body. Drink eight to ten glasses of water every day between meals. To avoid stretching the stomach, do not drink an excessive amount of water at meal time or just after the meal.

With all that is known today about weight reduction, there is no reason why you cannot grow slimmer, healthier and younger.

Pleasant Homes

By ELIZABETH MCRAE BOYKIN

Mrs. Sew-and-Sew Is Always Trying to Tuck Her Sewing Paraphernalia Out of Sight.

A lady who sews owes herself a few conveniences. And the few conveniences can run into so many items, as the years pass, that she will end up by owing herself a sewing room, too. Alas, however, few homes are large enough to give up a whole room to a lady's hobby, even though that hobby may be a necessary one. And anybody who has struggled to hide her seamstress equipment with the machine pushed here, scraps shoved there and other odds-and-ends hidden in a hall closet will tell you that it's a lot of bother.

Guest room into sewing room is a bright idea—or, many times, a good sized closet will substitute for a sewing room. Any home sewer will tell you that the machine is the least of her troubles now that smart cabinet makers and handy portables are on the market. It's the pattern and the pins, the thread and the thimbles, the bobbins and the bindings that get in her hair.

What You'll Need.

If a guest room must double for a sewing place, try using a long table under two windows that can hold books, a pair of lamps and perhaps a bowl of flowers or a pretty growing plant when not in use. Sweep these off when you start to make that new dress, and you have a fine work-space for cutting patterns, pinning in pleats and the like. Keep an ironing board in the guest room closet and be sure there is a handy outlet for the iron. Buy a closet shoe box with many drawers to hold the notions—darning tools in one drawer, various colored silk spools in another, swatches and patching pieces in another, scissors, needles and pins and thimbles in another. And these shoe box drawers are usually just the right size for filing away favorite patterns, too.

Always keep a large sheet handy and when you start to work, place it on the floor under the machine. It's the most prodigal as you like with falling scraps of material, threads and pins. After you've finished, swoop up the sheet, shake it out and a disagreeable clean-up job is avoided.

In-a-Door.

An attractive close-to-sewing room we've seen had the machine placed on a table with casters in the closet, shelves all around for equipment (some with little pegs for spools of thread, others with simple drawers for pins, needles and the like). The walls were left in their white plaster original state, the edges of the shelves painted a glossy black. The clever lady who decorated this closet made cut-outs in black and red heavy paper of spools, scissors and thimbles and pasted them at random on the closet doors. An electrician installed an outlet and a good hanging light. The closet is attractive and although, during long jobs, it is necessary to move the machine into a nearby room, at least all the sewing equipment is in one place and readily accessible, and the machine does nicely there for quick little stitch-up jobs.

Crochet—Enduring Pleasure

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Make Your Rug Any Desired Size

PATTERN 5544

Why pay a lot of money for rugs when you can make them as easily as this yourself? This Alice Brooks pattern shows you how to crochet durable, handsome rugs, pillow covers, or foot-stool covers out of scraps of rug wool, rags or candlewicking. Colorful six-sided flower medallions are sewn together and a varicolored border is crocheted around them. In pattern 5544 you will find complete instructions for making the rug, pillow top and foot-stool shown; an illustration of them and of all stitches used; material requirements; color suggestions.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept., The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

THE STATE OF ANOXIA.

Asphyxia is apparent death or suspended animation or unconsciousness due to interference with the oxygenation of the blood. Suffocation, drowning or inhalation of irrespirable gases such as pure nitrogen, carbon dioxide or a relatively small proportion of carbon monoxide in air, are common causes. Literally asphyxia means absence of heart-beat. Asphyxia implies extreme or total deprivation of oxygen or air. Anoxemia or anoxia applies to a partial oxygen deficiency in the blood or in the tissues.

Carbon monoxide gas, colorless, odorless, tasteless, has greater affinity for the hemoglobin in the blood than has oxygen. So, when even a small amount of the deadly gas is inhaled it crowds oxygen out of the blood, and this anoxemia or anoxia is the cause of death or whatever symptoms may occur after gassing with carbon monoxide. Carbon monoxide itself is not poisonous nor injurious to the blood, cells or tissues. Yet the presence of one part of it in 2,000 parts of air breathed will cause symptoms if breathed for hours. Air containing four parts in a thousand is fatal if breathed for an hour. One part per thousand of air will cause headache and confusion and loss of power, especially if the person is exerting himself. Muscular exertion increases the demand for oxygen—sometimes rescuers suffer more severely than the victim they are trying to save.

The term "carbon monoxide poisoning" should convey the idea of anoxia—the injury or damage the cells and tissues suffer when deprived for even a short time of their quota of oxygen. Recovery may be complete when the exposure has not been too long or the concentration of monoxide inhaled too high; this depends on the oxygen reserve in the blood and tissues at the time the carbon monoxide is inhaled. In a person at rest or asleep, the oxygen reserve is comparatively large and the chance of recovery from carbon monoxide gassing is correspondingly better; in a person who has been working or exerting himself or struggling the oxygen reserve is low and the tissues and cells more likely to suffer severe or irreparable damage from anoxia.

The signs and symptoms of anoxia, whether from carbon monoxide or from other cause are as follows:

Tightness across forehead, slight headache, dilation of cutaneous blood vessels and flushing of the skin. These are the symptoms of the mildest degree of anoxia. If the oxygen deficiency in the blood and tissues increases, there is throbbing in the temples with headache, then weakness, dizziness, dimness of vision, nausea, vomiting, collapse. At this stage the pulse is increased and the breathing is increased. Then with faintness or loss of consciousness both pulse and breathing grow weaker and brain activity ceases altogether, though the heart may continue beating faintly or irregularly for as long as an hour after breathing has ceased—where there is life there is hope of ultimate resuscitation if the effort is not abandoned before the victim has had the benefit of the doubt.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Solder in Tea Kettle.

Used a lot of solder to mend large hole in tea kettle. Soldered around bottom inside. Is there danger of lead poisoning from using the tea kettle? (K. A. G.)

Answer—Yes, natural water boiled in the kettle may dissolve some of the lead in the solder and the tea drinkers in the family may thus get chronic lead poisoning.

Iron.

Please give list of foods containing iron. (P. P.)

Answer—Lean beef, spinach, kale, egg yolk, oysters, liver, plain wheat bran, oatmeal, dried prunes, beans, peas, beets, carrots, molasses dandelion, peanuts, cabbage, raisins, apples, lettuce, onions, cheese. Send ten cents coin and stamped envelope bearing your address, for booklet "Blood and Health," which contains instructions for making and taking a good iron tonic.

Stutter.

Can you suggest anything to help stuttering? (O. D. H.)

Answer—Singing lessons under good instructor. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for "Ten Commandments of Speech" and other help for stuttering and stammering. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

FRANCES YOUNG.

A personality chart of lovely Frances Young, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lane.

Young, shows a personality of purpose, with a clear judgment. There is vivid imagination and an intense love of the beautiful.

She possesses a great deal of continuity of purpose, with splendid firmness of character, which gives her good tenacity to accomplish the thing she sets out to do.

The chart shows she possesses a high degree of conscientiousness combined with high ideals, fine reflective ability, with good creative and planning quality, particularly along the line of music. She is strongly artistic in this direction.

She is possessed of a logical mind and a vivid emotional side, all of which makes an unusually fine combination of forces.

INSTALLMENT II

On the train she did not look back at the tall youthful figure in gray. She pressed her hand against her mouth to keep from crying. Her throat ached. Good-bye to Jerry, to Uncle John, to Aunt Hetty. . . . One part of her life had come to an end, the Harrison part, but of it she had sweet memories and Aunt Hetty's wise advice to lean upon. From now on she would be a girl alone. . . . If only you could see just a little future ahead of you! If only the future were not such a void! Her heart raced. Sitting up straight, she looked ahead and thought, "I won't be afraid. Aunt Hetty taught me never to be afraid in the dark!"

New York. . . . To fall in love. To be a great actress. . . . Her dreams. And she was following them. . . .

At 7 o'clock that night Karen stepped off the train and followed a red-cap with her two heavy bags through the great station. So many people coming and going. Tipping the red-cap, she slid into a taxi. The buildings reached optimistically toward the sky. Streets were thickly peopled. Already in the twilight the lights on Broadway were blinking and shining. How remote Harrison seemed now, she thought.

Through correspondence, she had found a room occupied by a Mrs. Graham who was going to spend the summer in the country. Mrs. Graham was a friend of Cora Hillman. The apartment house was on Fifty-seventh street and before long the cab stopped and several minutes later she was on the elevator.

Mrs. Graham, tall, middle-aged, and gray-haired, opened the door. "Oh, Miss Mallare! Come in." The room was small. The mahogany dresser and the desk before the window were old and cheap. But a new chintz cover on the studio couch and new chintz curtains at the one window added cheer.

They talked awhile about Cora Hillman and about Mrs. Graham's long anticipated summer in the country. Then Mrs. Graham put on her hat and her gloves and turned to Karen, extending her hand.

"I hope you like the room and I wish you luck. Cora wrote you were going on the stage." She smiled. "You're pretty enough but it takes more than that. Before I go, I'll stop down the hall and say good-bye to Roxanne. She's a real girl about you. She works in a night club and may be able to help you."

When Mrs. Graham had left, Karen went to the window and opened it and stood in the cool air. From Harrison to New York in seven hours! It seemed incredible! She thought, "Well, I'm here!" It had taken courage to say to Mr. Brennan, manager of the dress shop, "I'm leaving on Saturday. I'm going to New York." She had told no one except Jerry and Cora that she was coming to go on the stage.

Karen Mallare. It was not her real name. But she would take the name of Karen Mallare to glittering heights. She would! She would! And perhaps in the struggle and fight to come she would meet a man whom she would love more than she loved her own life.

In a little while the impersonal room became Karen's room, with her dresses in the closet, her books and Aunt Hetty's photograph on the desk, and her comb, brush and mirror on the dresser. And just as she realized she had not eaten since breakfast, someone tapped at the door. Going to the door, opening it, she saw a small slim girl with yellow hair. She wore a severe black dress with a glittering pin at the neck. "I'm Roxanne Dell," she said. "Sara Graham thought we should know each other. But she didn't tell me your name. Her voice was husky and even a little hard. She appraised Karen coldly. Karen opened the door wider. "Come in," she said out her hand. "I'm Karen Mallare." A friend? Somebody to talk to? Roxanne's handclasp was firm. Long ago Karen had learned to judge people by that.

Sitting on the studio couch, Roxanne Dell smiled. And her smile had pity and cynicism in it. "Sara said you wanted to go on the stage. You picked a fine time to come! In a few weeks everything will be closed tight for the summer and the producers will be either on their yachts or in Europe. Of course, there are those summer playhouses but I don't know anything about them." She shook her yellow head and her smile was sympathetic. "It's a tough racket."

Karen thought, "She thinks I'm just another stage-struck girl. She doesn't know that I have a better reason for wanting to be an actress than most girls. My mother was an actress."

Roxanne said, "Sorry for throwing the cold water but you might as well know." "I'm here and I'm not going back," Karen said. "I've nothing to go back to. Everything I possess is with me."

"Small town?" Karen nodded. Roxanne arose. Why was she bothering? Was it because four years ago somebody had bothered with her and had been kind? You needed kindness and friendship when you were alone. She knew. And Karen Mallare was no ordinary girl. She wasn't silly or hard. She was beautiful, Roxanne thought, and sensible and courageous.

"I'm going out to dinner," she said. "Would you like to come with me? There's a place a couple of blocks away that isn't bad. And it's cheap. I've got to get my hat. See you downstairs in the lobby."

In a booth in a restaurant Karen heard Roxanne Dell's story. "I didn't have far to come to New York," Roxanne Dell told Karen. "I came from New Jersey." She smiled. "Beauty contest winner. I thought that would get me by. But I was young then, 17, and I didn't know much. I haven't any family either except a sister who's married and lives in Atlanta."

Roxanne looked across the table at Karen. "I've done a little bit of everything but I've never been anywhere near fame or the big money. And I've been as low as my last 35 cents. I was in vaudeville for a year and last summer in a night club in Atlantic City. Now I'm singing on a hotel roof. It's the best job I've ever had. But I've had enough of this business. I'm going to get married."

Her voice wasn't husky or hard when she said, "I'm going to get married," Karen noticed. It had become amazingly tender. Roxanne buttered a roll and smiled. "I'm going to marry a man. I'm so crazy about I don't know how I live or work when he isn't here. Bill, Bill McGrath. But he isn't here most of the time. He travels."

"What are you waiting for?" Karen asked. When people were in love, why did they wait? Roxanne laughed softly. "We're waiting for Christmas! He gets his vacation then and she expects to be made sales manager of a

UNCLE RAY'S Corner

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK. My hotel in Rome is either at, or near, the edge of the grounds of Nero's Golden House. It is hard to tell the exact limits of the grounds, though they are known in a general way.

Nero's Golden House is gone now, but it was the largest and most costly palace ever built by an emperor. We are told that with its grounds the palace covered one-third of the ancient city of Rome.

The Golden House was built after the burning of Rome in the year 64. On the grounds were trees, lakes, gardens, streams and fountains. The hundreds of rooms were decorated with ivory, marble and gold.

Of all the bad emperors of Rome, Nero probably was the worst. He ordered murders to be committed, and many Christians to be placed in the arena. He squeezed taxes from the people to build his grand palaces, and to pay for his costly ways of living. There is little, if any, doubt that he was insane—a mad emperor who did harm to his subjects and his empire.

The wicked deeds of Nero led to revolt. A Roman army, led by a 72-year-old general, marched against Nero. In fear of being captured and tortured, Nero stabbed himself and thus ended his life.

Emperors who later held the throne knew the hatred of the people against Nero. Some part of the Golden House were torn down. Others were buried, or turned into public buildings. Some of the statues in the Golden House have been found in modern times, and have been placed in different museums of Rome. One of these, the "Laocoon group," I saw during my visit to the Vatican. It contains three figures, a Trojan priest and his two sons, who are struggling against two huge serpents.

The memory of Nero's cruelty did not die away in Rome. During a visit to a church the other day I heard this story from my guide. "The people of the Middle Ages remembered Nero, and feared his ghost. They said it haunted the very spot. The church was built to take away their fear."

Nero is gone, and his Golden House is gone. He ruled for 14 years, and stained the pages of history. Some of the emperors who held the throne after him were good men. (For Travel section of your scrapbook.)

TARZAN UNDER FIRE

No. 48

After his well-aimed arrow had accounted for one of his savage pursuers, Doc remained a while in hiding, but when no more came, he moved forth. Regardless of danger, he must keep his foot in sight until he could devise some plan to save Yvonne and Dick.

He found the sun worshippers once more a march, moving with feverish eagerness, as if hurrying to some special goal. Doc congratulated himself that they had abandoned the search for him, but he would not have been so pleased had he known the true cause.

A few minutes before, one of the sun worshippers, who had been scouting ahead, came running back to report breathlessly to Gulum: "Far away, across the hills, I have seen a perfect site for our new temple, a site which will be pleasing to the Flaming God."

A wave of electric excitement swept through the band. Yvonne gasped and placed a trembling hand on Dick's arm. "Oh, Dick, for you this means the end. When they come to the site of the temple they will offer up a human sacrifice. It will be you, Dick!"

ROOSEVELT PLANS PROGRAM TO REVISE TAXES ON PROFITS

Next Session of Congress To Be Given Bill To Aid Business.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A program of major changes in the capital gains and undistributed profits taxes has been formulated by administration leaders close to President Roosevelt.

The revisions, word received here by business and financial leaders friendly with the administration disclosed, would be made in the regular session of congress which convenes in January and would not apply to the 1937 tax year. They would be a compromise of the views of the administration and its business-financial critics.

The undistributed profits tax, these sources explained, would be modified to allow large corporations to retain a surplus reservoir for expansion and contingencies. This would be accomplished by exempting around 25 to 30 per cent of the undistributed earnings from the tax.

Modification Contemplated. In modification of the capital gains tax, varying degrees of exemption are contemplated, ranging as high as 50 to 70 per cent after a year.

Examination of the capital gains tax, as it applies now to transactions in securities gives the best idea of what such revision would mean.

If an investor sells securities within a year from purchase and has established a capital gain in this transaction—that is, if the value of his capital has been increased thereby—100 per cent of the gain is now subject to taxation. If the sale is not made until after the securities have been held a year, then only 80 per cent of the gain is taxable; after two years, 60 per cent is taxable and after five years 40 per cent is taxable.

Greater Exemption After Year. The modification prepared by the administration leaders would allow exemption of 50 to 70 per cent after a year, the exact amount to be determined by further study, the exemptions increasing in proportion to the years the securities are held. There is no apparent disposition, however, to accept any exemption on capital gains established under a year.

If such a revision becomes law, it would mean that the government, instead of collecting a tax on 80 per cent of the capital gain after a year, would collect a tax on only 30 to 50 per cent of the gain. Capital gains are subject to the regular income tax rates, 50 per cent is taxable and after five years 40 per cent is taxable.

The President was represented by this group as holding firm in his belief that an undistributed profits tax was necessary to "reach" the undistributed earnings of those corporations which are held closely in family control, and that consequently any congressional attempt at outright repeal of the tax would be vigorously opposed.

ATLANTAN NAMED AS REAR ADMIRAL

High Rank Goes to Captain J. W. Wilcox Jr.

Captain John Walter Wilcox Jr., U. S. navy, of Atlanta, formerly of Milledgeville, advanced to rear admiral yesterday when President Roosevelt approved promotions made by a selection board of nine officers.

Captain Wilcox is now chief of staff of the Naval War College at Newport, R. I. Another Georgian, Commander Charlton Eugene Battle Jr., of Oglethorpe, was advanced to the rank of captain under the same order. Commander Battle is now executive officer on the cruiser Quincy and lists Rochester, N. Y., as his present home.

WOMAN, 52, OVERCOME BY GAS IN HER KITCHEN

Miss Pluma Byrd, 52, was found yesterday overcome by gas and lying on the floor of her kitchen at 51 Sixth street, N. E. She was unconscious when found but was revived by a rescue squad of the Atlanta fire department. Taken to Grady hospital, she was admitted for observation.

Miss Byrd, who operates a boarding house at the address, was found by a negro maid about 4:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Eight gas jets were open when the woman was discovered, police said.

COLLEGE TEACHER TO GIVE RECITAL

State Counsellors Club Will Hear Program Today.

Walter Spry, professor of piano at Converse College, Spartanburg, S. C., will be presented in a lecture-recital at the December meeting of the State Counsellors Club at 1 o'clock today at the Cable building. Mrs. Armand Carroll is chairman of the counsellors group, a division of the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs.

Spry's program includes "Fantasia in D minor," Mozart; "Rhapsody," Opus 79, No. 2; Brahms; "Scherzo in E minor," Mendelssohn; "Bird as Prophet," Schumann; "Polonaise in B flat," Chopin; "Liebestraum, No. 2," Liszt; "In Autumn," MacDowell; "Nocturne in G flat," Respi; and a group of his own works, "Petite Carnival," "Portrait," and "Air de Ballet."

PRESIDENT PARRIES ENVOY SHIFT QUERY

Says No Vacancy Exists in London Post.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Newspapermen's questions as to whether it was true that Robert W. Bingham had resigned from the post of ambassador to London brought the reply from President Roosevelt today that no vacancy exists in the London ambassadorship.

The same reply greeted a query as to whether Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the Maritime Commission, had been chosen to succeed Bingham. It is customary for a government to make no announcement of a new ambassadorial appointment until the foreign power to which he is to be accredited signifies that he is acceptable.

Until such notice is received from the foreign government, the incumbent's resignation usually is not accepted formally. Before this is done, no official vacancy exists.

WARMER WEATHER TODAY IS PREDICTED

Milder weather is in prospect for Atlanta today after winter's final thrust sends the mercury down to a predicted 20 degrees again this morning, the weatherman said yesterday.

"Increasing cloudiness will bring a definite change to warmer, with the mercury expected to range as high as 40 degrees during the day," Forecaster George W. Minding said. Subfreezing temperatures were predicted as far as the coast last night.

The mercury failed to reach the predicted 15-degree low mark yesterday morning, but tumbled to 20 degrees. Temperatures yesterday were about the same as the day before, the high being 34 degrees.

Freezing weather extended southward as far as Apalachicola, Fla., yesterday morning, Augusta reported 24, Macon 24, Savannah 30, and Thomasville 26.

WIFE GETS 25 YEARS IN HUSBAND SLAYING

STUART, Va., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A Patrick county jury convicted Mrs. Bertha Rees, 39, of first-degree murder today in the death of her husband last October 3 and fixed her punishment at 25 years in prison.

Shortly after the verdict was reached, Elmore Mabry, 20-year-old farmer, who testified he shot Rees on a promise that Mrs. Rees would marry him, waived jury trial and submitted his case to Judge Clement Mabry who jointly indicted with her for murder. The court deferred decision in his case until tomorrow.

BIBB SCHOOL BOARD LOSES MONEY FIGHT

Denied Writ To Force Allotment of Funds on Census Basis.

The Bibb county board of education yesterday was denied a mandamus writ which sought to force the State Board of Education to allot Bibb school funds on a census basis.

Judge Hugh M. Dorsey ruled in favor of the state and its new equalization act after a two-day hearing in Fulton superior court. Bibb school board attorneys said the decision would be appealed immediately.

Under its charter granted by the Georgia constitution of 1868, the Bibb county board is entitled to collect school funds on a census basis, counsel for Bibb county board contended.

On a census basis, the Bibb board would receive an additional revenue of $60,000 annually, the petition for mandamus set out. Attorneys for the state contended that if the 1937 equalization act is set aside, it will entail an additional $250,000 a year to meet allocations.

Attorneys for the state and Bibb county agreed on fact Thursday and confined arguments to law yesterday.

The state contended the Bibb board has waived its right to collect funds on the census basis, under the original charter, because it has accepted services under the constitution of 1877.

Bibb county school authorities were represented by Harry S. Strozzer and Jones, Russell & Sparks, of Macon. Assistant Attorney Generals W. H. Duckworth and Dave M. Parker argued the case for the state.

SPANISH FRONTIER CLOSED BY REBELS

French Officials Point Out Similar Action Has Preceded Big Drives.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Spanish insurgent authorities at Irun tonight announced the closing of the Spanish frontier, causing French officials to believe a major offensive was imminent.

French officials recalled that the frontier was closed in the same manner at the beginning of other big insurgent drives.

Insurgent authorities said no one would be permitted to enter or leave rebel territory until December 20.

The stock exchange took steps during the day to examine its own organization critically, when Charles R. Gay, president, appointed a committee to consider increasing the number of paid exchange officers. They are: Adolph A. Berle Jr., a member of President Roosevelt's "original brain trust"; Trowbridge Callaway, of Callaway Fish & Co., a stock exchange firm, and former president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America; John A. Coleman, an exchange member; Carl C. Conway, chairman of Continental Can Co.; Maurice Farrell, of F. S. Smithers & Co., a governor of the exchange; Kenneth C. Hogue, president of the financial news firm of Dow Jones & Co.; William McMartin Jr., governor of the exchange and a member of the firm of A. G. Edwards & Sons, St. Louis; Thomas H. McInerney, president of National Dairy Products Corp.; John W. Prentiss, senior partner of the exchange firm of Hornblower & Weeks and also a former I. B. A. president and once head of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms.

U. S. MUST NOT QUIT PHILIPPINES-HAWES

Murder by Japan Feared by Ex-Senator.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Former Senator Harry B. Hawes, Democrat, Missouri, said today American withdrawal from the Philippines "would invite cold-blooded murder from Japan right now."

The senator, an amateur photographer, brought back from his Philippine voyage a collection of pictures taken in shelltown Shanghai.

"The same thing," he said, pointing to his photographs, "would happen to the Filipinos if America withdrew. The islands will be safe and quiet only so long as the Stars and Stripes continues to fly there."

PLOT IS REVEALED TO SLAY DELBOS

Intercepted Letters Uncover Threat Against Life.

VALENCIENNES, France, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Police tonight were hunting a band of terrorists suspected of plotting to assassinate Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos as he moved about the capitals of central and southeastern Europe to tighten France's alliances.

The plot was revealed when authorities intercepted coded letters to Koloman Budai, Hungarian terrorist in jail here. A dozen warrants were issued for the arrest of suspected accomplices.

Delbos was in Bucharest today. The seized letters indicated he was to be assassinated at Praha, Czechoslovakia, where he is due next week.

ANTI-WAR PACT SIGNED

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Nicaragua and Honduras tonight signed an accord designed to prevent outbreak of war on the Central American isthmus pending final solution of the "postage stamp" border dispute between the two countries.

ARMY ORDERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Army orders today were: Lieutenant Colonel Gouverneur H. Boyer, medical corps, Philippine department, to Fort Benning, Ga.

Twas Wild, Too! Garner Defends Hunting Prowess

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—What was that critter Vice President Garner shot on a Pennsylvania deer-hunting trip?

President Roosevelt hinted it was a friendly pet of a hunting camp that answered to a whistle and ate out of your hand.

"My old friend Bessie" was the way the President referred to the victim of Garner's shooting in a letter which Mr. Roosevelt sent Garner and which was marked "Private but not too confidential."

Senator Guffey, Democrat, Pennsylvania, who organized the Garner hunting expedition last week, made the correspondence public today.

The President didn't specifically mention to what species Bessie belonged. The first assumption on Capitol Hill was that the President had in mind a cow—frequently the victim of a huntsman's error.

Guffey finally said the assumption was wrong, that the Bessie he knew was a tame doe.

Garner's "game" was served up to a party of 24 senatorial and diplomatic guests last night. Mr. Roosevelt, still referring to "Bessie," wrote Garner yesterday: "It makes me feel so chokky when I think of her untimely death. I could attend the funeral service tonight even if I had been involved."

"I hope that all of you enjoy the wake," the President said in closing.

Garner maintained the deer was "wild"—and then took refuge in a senatorial right to refuse to answer questions.

"It's a custom as old as the senate that nobody can question a senator's word."

ROOSEVELT NAMES NEW SEC MEMBERS

J. W. Hanes and Jerome N. Frank Are Both Said To Be Liberals.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A former New Deal official and a New York Stock Exchange member who subscribes to the administration's demand for stock market reorganization received appointments to the Securities and Exchange Commission today.

President Roosevelt appointed, subject to the senate's approval, John W. Hanes, senior partner of the brokerage firm of Charles D. Barney & Company, and a leader of "liberal" opinion in Wall Street.

Jerome N. Frank, New York corporation lawyer, who had a reputation for "liberalism" during previous service in important administration posts.

The stock exchange took steps during the day to examine its own organization critically, when Charles R. Gay, president, appointed a committee to consider increasing the number of paid exchange officers. They are: Adolph A. Berle Jr., a member of President Roosevelt's "original brain trust"; Trowbridge Callaway, of Callaway Fish & Co., a stock exchange firm, and former president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America; John A. Coleman, an exchange member; Carl C. Conway, chairman of Continental Can Co.; Maurice Farrell, of F. S. Smithers & Co., a governor of the exchange; Kenneth C. Hogue, president of the financial news firm of Dow Jones & Co.; William McMartin Jr., governor of the exchange and a member of the firm of A. G. Edwards & Sons, St. Louis; Thomas H. McInerney, president of National Dairy Products Corp.; John W. Prentiss, senior partner of the exchange firm of Hornblower & Weeks and also a former I. B. A. president and once head of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms.

R. F. C. RAILWAY LOAN HELD RECOVERY PROP.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Senate investigators sought to show today that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation granted financial assistance to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad in 1934 partly because the administration's recovery program might otherwise have suffered a setback.

The St. Paul received a $3,500,000 loan from the RFC December 31, 1934, to meet interest payments due early in the following year, testimony showed, and six months later went into bankruptcy.

U. S. SHOE CORPORATION PAYS $85,000 IN BONUSES

CINCINNATI, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The United States Shoe Corporation announced today an $85,000 Christmas bonus to employees. A statement by the executive board said production had passed 12,000 pairs daily and that an expected 48.7 per cent increase in spring sales over 1937 indicated steady employment for the first six months of the coming year.

Yippee! Rodeo Staged Under Hudson River

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—An honest-to-goodness rodeo, full of the spirit and color of the "Yippee!" rodeo, was staged today, a hundred feet beneath the surface of the Hudson river.

Patrolman Chauncey Martin, a tenderfoot, (yippee, Chauncey!) was on fixed post in the east-bound traffic tube of the Holland tunnel.

In a flash, in true western bang-bang fashion, Martin had the door of the truck closed to stop the other steers. Then came the emergency (the yippee) squad. And, sure enough, they had rope with them. In a jiffy they had lassos made, and, brother, they had those steers roped before you could say Cactus Benny.

41 MILLION ADDED FOR HOUSING FUNDS

Money Set Aside for 10 More Cities, Including Several in South.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Administrator Nathan Straus, of the United States Housing Authority, set aside today an additional $41,000,000 for slum-clearance and low-rent housing projects.

The new earmarkings for ten cities brought Straus' total commitments to more than $70,000,000.

Straus announced the following earmarkings:

Birmingham, Ala., $4,500,000; Buffalo, N. Y., $4,900,000; Lowell, Mass., $2,700,000; Memphis, Tenn., $2,000,000; New Orleans, $7,200,000; Omaha, Neb., $2,100,000; Philadelphia, $12,000,000; St. Petersburg, Fla., $900,000; Yonkers, N. Y., $2,200,000; Youngstown, Ohio, $3,600,000.

Aides of Straus said Mayor La Guardia, of New York city, who refused to allow his housing experts to attend conferences with Straus, is scheduled to call on the housing administrator tomorrow.

USHA Satisfied. Straus said each of the cities for which funds have been set aside "has satisfied the USHA that a financially responsible and technically equipped local housing authority has been set up. Each city also has indicated that it proposes to be in a position to advance the 10 per cent capital cost of the projects which the law specified must be borne by the local communities."

Straus is authorized to lend 90 per cent of the cost of projects to housing authorities in communities.

In the case of Birmingham, Ala., and Lowell, Mass., Straus said, the earmarkings are subject to a condition—"that valid state legislation be enacted to enable the cities to meet the requirements of the act and that they contribute one-fifth of the annual subsidy to insure low rentals."

HEIRS RECAPTURE RINGLINGS' EMPIRE

Descendants Take Over Management After 5-Year 'Abdication.'

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The Ringlings—the world's leading circus dynasty—regained control today of their vast canvas empire after five years' financial "abdication."

Descendants of the original Ringling brothers stepped into the management of the Ringling-Barnum circus and its affiliated shows, supplanting an executive staff installed in 1932 by a mortgage-holding group.

The new management, it was announced, will be headed by John Ringling North, 34-year-old nephew and coexecutor of the estate of the late John Ringling, one of the original brothers.

The elder John borrowed $1,700,000 from the New York syndicate in 1929 to buy circuses. In 1932, the Ringlings relinquished direct control of the circus corporation to the note holders. In 1936 Ringling died.

BIG FIGHTING SHIP VISITS SHREVEPORT

Craft Has Six Rapid Fire Small Cannons.

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The biggest fighting airplane ever built in America, the four-motored B-15 bomber, dropped down on Barksdale field today en route to Dayton, Ohio, for army air corps testing.

It had to be anchored by its wings to 10-ton trucks because there wasn't a hangar big enough to house it.

The plane is one-third bigger in every direction than the B-17 "Flying Fortress." Its weight is 155 tons—more than 51 yards. The crew included a pilot, copilot, radio operator and navigator, a bomber and six gunners. Six rapid-fire guns, of the small cannon type, are placed in streamlined nests in various parts of the ship.

The huge ship, which has been making "loafing" journeys from Seattle to Dayton, stopping at field some each night, was expected to take off early tomorrow.

Yippee! Rodeo Staged Under Hudson River

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—An honest-to-goodness rodeo, full of the spirit and color of the "Yippee!" rodeo, was staged today, a hundred feet beneath the surface of the Hudson river.

Patrolman Chauncey Martin, a tenderfoot, (yippee, Chauncey!) was on fixed post in the east-bound traffic tube of the Holland tunnel. In a flash, in true western bang-bang fashion, Martin had the door of the truck closed to stop the other steers. Then came the emergency (the yippee) squad. And, sure enough, they had rope with them. ## News of Gate City Told in Paragraphs Camera Club will meet at 7:30 o'clock Monday at 110 1-2 Forsyth street, N. W. An illustrated lecture on "Color Photography" will be given by Edward Caruthers.

A Dutch supper was given recently by the Auxiliary to Local No. 32 of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks at the home of Mrs. Marvin W. Medlock, 731 Virginia circle, N. E. The assembly was attended by a large group of the leading members of the local and auxiliary.

Members of the Capitol View church will hold a rally at the church, on the corner of Dill and Athens avenue, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The rally will be given in the interest of obtaining a home for the Rev. W. J. DeBardeleben, recently superannuated on account of ill health.

Mrs. Milton Wood, daughter-in-law of Judge Jesse M. Wood, of criminal court of Fulton county, was reported recovering last night at St. Joseph's hospital from spinal injuries received Wednesday when struck by a truck near her home at Fifteenth and Peachtree streets.

Two fires of undetermined origin burned residences here yesterday causing an estimated $1,300 damage. Starting in the basement, a fire did $300 damage to the home of R. R. Jackson, of 630 Orange circle, N. E. while family was out of town. Flame did $1,000 damage to the home of the Rev. C. R. Caldwell, of 81 Martin avenue, S. E.

Will Graves, 30, negro, of an Old Wheat street address, died yesterday of wounds received when shot earlier in the day. Police arrested Joe Henry Lewis, 27, of an Irwin street address, on suspicion in connection with the shooting.

ARBITRATION URGED ON LABOR, INDUSTRY

Agreement Between Publishers and Pressmen Is Held Example.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—James G. Stahlman, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, suggested today that all labor and industry adopt arbitration to prevent strikes.

Stahlman made that suggestion after the publishers' association renewed for five years its arbitration agreement with the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union of North America.

Stahlman said the principle of arbitration "involves the fundamental right of all parties to a controversy to a full hearing upon the facts and to a fair and impartial adjudication pertaining to wages, hours and working conditions on the basis of those facts."

"That is and must continue to be the American way of settlement," he said, and added, "It is our honest belief that arbitration is the surest and straightest way to industrial peace and consequent economic recovery."

Senator George L. Berry, president of the Pressmen's Union, likewise praised the agreement.

POSTAL NOMINATIONS

AUSTRIA, HUNGARY STICK TO LEAGUE

Neither Nation Will Follow If Italy Withdraws.

VIENNA, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Foreign office officials said today there was no likelihood of Austria or Hungary following suit, should Italy withdraw from the League of Nations.

(Italy called a grand council meeting yesterday and the report circulated in diplomatic quarters that the purpose of the meeting was to quit the League.)

Although Austria and Hungary are Italy's partners in their own protocols, the two countries, under those agreements, reserved freedom of action in such matters of foreign policy.

It was pointed out that Austria is most indebted to France and Great Britain in its effort to retain independence and, consequently, does not desire to leave the League.
